Wide Committee Split Follows Attack by Senator.

Investigation's Future in Doubt; Sessions Called "Circus."

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Amid scenes of confusion and disorder unparalleled on Capitol Hill in recent years, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday adjourned its inquiry into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co. until next Wednesday.

In the interim an effort will be made to compose in executive session vital differences of opinion touching procedure.

Pecora's expressed willingness to resign if the committee demands, was a high point of the half-hour clash, which followed an open charge by Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, that Pecora was receiving more than $255 a month for his services.

This charge Senator Fletcher, the committee chairman, denied.

Pecora Wrote Resolution.

Senator Fletcher disclosed during the interchange that Pecora himself had written last March the resolution authorizing the enlarged scope of the original stock market inquiry approved in April, 1932. He disclosed also that after Pecora had received the enlarged authorization, under the terms of his own resolution, he moved to New York with his staff of investigators and did not return to Washington to confer with the Banking Committee until last Tuesday, a few minutes before the Morgan inquiry was launched.

Senator Glass placed in the record a vigorous declaration that a close examination of the minutes of the subcommittee's executive sessions disclosed no authority to any member thereof to engage Pecora as special counsel. Other members of the committee disagreed with this view. The records of the subcommittee were not called into evidence.

Assembling an hour after its scheduled time, because of an extended executive session which began at 9:30 a. m., the committee devoted two hours to an examination of the affairs of the United Corporation, an electric utility holding company dominated by J. P. Morgan & Co.

Bared by Former Probe.

The committee row immediately preceding adjournment revealed that all the material reviewed by Pecora in his examination of George Howard, president of the United Corporation, had been reported upon more than a year ago by the Federal Trade Commission, as a part of its power inquiry.

As the committee adjourned there was uncertainty between the members as to who would be asked to

Mrs. Coolidge's Aid Hurt in Taxi Crash

Former Secretary and Sister Painfully Injured Here.

Thrown violently against the inside of their taxicab when it collided with another car at Dupont Circle, Miss Mary Randolph, private secretary to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge when the latter was in the White House, and her sister, Miss Ann Randolph, were painfully injured yesterday. Both were admitted to Emergency Hospital.

The accident occurred when the taxi, driven by Manuel Glick, 28, of 1603 Isherwood street northeast, is said to have collided with the auto of Raymond Wheeler, 40, of Cherrydale, Va. Police said Wheeler's car turned into Dupont Circle from Massachusetts avenue.

At the hospital it was found that Miss Mary Randolph had suffered a fractured right shoulder. Her sister received a broken nose and severe lacerations. The impact threw both women heavily against the sides and top of the taxi.

Police said traffic lights at the circle were in operation and no explanation was given as to the cause of the accident. No arrests were made.

MISS MARY RANDOLPH.

After leaving the White House, Miss Randolph wrote a series of magazine articles on her experiences as Mrs. Coolidge's secretary. She lives with her sister at 1317 Nineteenth street northwest.

UNITED STATES BANK MAY ENTER MERGER

Graham Asserts Action Is Expected to Be Made Public Today.

Entry of the United States Savings Bank into the new Hamilton National Bank consolidation is expected to be announced formally today, according to Edwin C. Graham, president of the newly formed bank.

The United States Savings Bank, located at Fourteenth and U streets northwest, would be the seventh to join the merger. It was organized in 1906, and for several years was regarded as one of the best dividend-bearing institutions in the country.

However, Col. Wade H. Cooper, president and majority stockholder of the United States Savings Bank, who has sought to reopen it independently, is opposed to its joining the new bank.

He said he has submitted a plan for the independent bank to continue and that the Treasury Department is now preparing a set-up for that purpose. Col. Cooper said he had not the slightest idea of affiliating with any other bank.

"The conservation act," he added, "does not contemplate the destruction of banks by the Treasury Department, but contemplates the saving of the banks. I understand that the reorganization division of the Treasury Department has been disseminating propaganda in an attempt to drive the United States Savings Bank into the Hamilton National combination."

The purposes of the new Hamilton National Bank and what it offers to the depositors of those unlicensed banks which consolidate with it, were explained last night by Mr. Graham in a radio address over Station WJSV. "Briefly summarized," he said, "the new bank offers 50 cents on the dol-

MERIT PLAN URGED FOR RECOVERY BILL

Senate Asked to Recognize Civil Service; District Plea to Be Heard.

Failure of the President's recovery bill to recognize the merit system and lack of provision in the measure for District road construction, yesterday opened it to protest from three quarters, as the Senate Finance Committee prepared to resume hearings on the bill.

While the House was pressing the measure to passage, Chairman Pat Harrison granted the request of local civic interests for a hearing Monday morning on the proposal to give the District its proportionate part of the $400,000,000 allotted to States for roads.

At the same time, Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, and Luther Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, protested sections of the bill authorizing appointment of officers and employes without regard to Civil Service laws.

A delegation comprising Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, Director of Highways Herbert C. Whitehurst, Secretary Robert J. Cottrell, of the Washington Board of Trade, and Dr. Llewellyn Jordan and George Graham, of the streets and avenues committee of the Washington Board of Trade, will go before the Senate Finance

Data on Projected Dismissals Asked

Preparatory to economy dismissals on July 1, questionnaires have been sent to employes of the Navy and Commerce Departments asking for information on the marital status and dependents of each worker.

The Commerce Department forms, similar to those filled out last year, were sent out last week. The economy law provides that persons whose husband or wife is employed in the Government shall be dismissed before those who are sole support of families.

The Commerce Department could not estimate whether there would be sufficient double-income families represented in that department to make it unnecessary to discharge others.

38 Quit Forest Camp When One Is Dismissed

Washburn, Wis., May 26 (A.P.).—Thirty-eight members of Company 640, Civilian Conservation Corps, left the Brink Camp in the Moquah National Forest today, protesting the discharge Thursday of Charles Doria for refusal to do his camp duty of wood cutting and carrying after his day's work.

Capt. N. M. Rogers, in charge of the camp, said each man must do this extra work once in 40 days. The 38 set out on foot for Washburn, 15 miles away. Twenty men left during the first week in camp.

HOUSE PASSES RECOVERY BILL; SALES TAX OUT

Measure Is Amended to Plug Up Holes in Income Law.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition in the House to the Roosevelt $3,300,000,000 public works - industrial - taxation bill crumbled last night and the measure, amended to plug up holes in the income tax laws, was passed, 324 to 76.

It goes to the Senate where favorable action is expected by Democratic leaders after the income tax program approved by the House is revised to ease the burden on men of small incomes.

Before acting on the bill the House voted down an attempt by Representative McCormick (Democrat), Massachusetts, to insert a 2½ per cent general manufacturers' sales tax into the bill to finance the $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue.

Income Tax Increased.

In rejecting the sales tax, 265 to 137, the House approved a revenue program increasing income and gasoline taxes and making corporate dividends subject to the higher income levies.

The taxes are designed to raise $220,000,000 annually to cover interest and amortization charges on the bond issue.

Without a dissenting vote, the House adopted an amendment by Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, designed to prevent income taxpayers from charging off year-old losses in making out income tax returns.

This amendment grew out of the disclosures before the Senate Banking Committee investigating J. P. Morgan & Co. Ragon told the House that had this amendment been in the law it would not have been possible for Morgan and his partners to avoid payments of taxes. It limits to the current year deductions of net losses of all descriptions sustained by individuals and partners. Under the present law, a year's carry over is allowed.

Provisions for Industry.

The bill empowers President Roosevelt to establish fair codes of competition in industry through suspension of the antitrust laws. He is empowered to fix maximum working hours and minimum wages for workers in industry.

The public works program has been estimated to be capable of giving about four million men jobs. About $2,000,000,000 is to be advanced to the States and local Governments.

Roosevelt Again Plans Week-End River Cruise

President Roosevelt again plans to spend his week-end on the water, it was said yesterday at the White House. He will sail today on the U. S. S. Sequoia for an overnight trip down the Potomac, returning to Washington some time tomorrow.

Guests on the cruise will include Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Woodin, and Admiral and Mrs. Cary Grayson. The trip is intended as a pleasure outing, but may develop some work. Last week's cruise, intended to give time for a study of the reorganization plan, was not spent in such study. The plan, however, is nearly finished and it is still expected that it will be sent to Congress some time next week.

MILK DICTATOR MAY BE NAMED IN WASHINGTON

Federal Agricultural Administrator to Call Parley Soon.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

Appointment of a milk administrator to adjust milk prices in the Washington area appeared in prospect yesterday with the announcement that a conference with this objective will be called by Charles J. Brand, coadministrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The conference, to be called at an early date, will be attended by distributors and producers of milk sold in the Capital. For several days, Mr. Brand has discussed the subject with Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, who instigated senatorial action calling for a probe of milk prices in Washington.

The date for the conference will be decided at a meeting soon between Mr. Brand and Senator King, who is keenly interested in the high milk and dairy products prices prevailing in the District.

Dr. C. L. King to Aid.

Dr. Clyde L. King, of Philadelphia, nationally known milk price arbitrator, will aid the Farm Adjustment officials in their study of milk prices in the Capital. In addition, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will be aided by legal and economic experts of the Department of Agriculture.

The milk administrator's function would be to establish a fair working schedule of prices, for the producer and the consumer and to assure a fair margin of profit for the distributor.

Before any milk administrator is appointed it would be necessary to hold public hearings at which the ideas of all interested parties would be given and facts collected to determine whether fair prices were being given to the producer and whether the consumer is paying an exorbitant price.

High Prices Prevail.

In Washington the principal point of debate is the exceptionally high retail prices for milk and cream, which are considerably in excess of those charged in other cities. The milk price in Washington, a survey

Chicago's Great Exposition Will Open Formally Today

Civilization's Progress During Last Century Graphically Portrayed; Farley Will Represent President at Exercises; $37,000,000 Spent on Fair.

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—With the pomp demanded by a show so broad in its theme and so long in its staging, the Century of Progress Exposition will open tomorrow.

At 9:30 in the morning, the turnstile will clink behind the first visitor, and he or she will view a spectacle of what man has wrought during the past century.

Fair officials have worked four years selecting for presentation the dramatic elements of humanity's conquest of nature and building a proper setting.

The first visitor will enter the exposition city at 8:30, but the official opening of the fair will require much more pageantry solemnity and the flourish of a high Government official's pen.

First, down Michigan boulevard, along Chicago's front yard and before its imposing file of skyscrapers, a long parade will move.

In the procession will be representatives of the Federal, State and city governments, officials of the Century of Progress, Army and Navy units and costumed and uniformed delegations from several national groups.

While the parade progresses down Michigan boulevard between a tall picket fence of flags, the gates of Soldiers' Field, huge South Side stadium in which the official opening ceremonies will be held, will swing open. The amphitheater accommodates 115,000 persons.

Dropping of a time ball at the north entrance to the Fair Grounds will signalize the beginning of the fair and ring up the curtain on a pageant of nations, staged by various groups dressed in their native costumes to symbolize the international character of the exposition.

The parade is scheduled to enter Soldiers' Field at 11 o'clock. Imme-

Roosevelt Asks Law For Silver Elevation; Irate Britons to Sue

Drastic Fall of Dollar Abroad Declared Unlikely.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

London, May 26.—British holders of United States securities intend to take vigorous action in the high courts to make the United States pay the bonds in the equivalant of gold dollars, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

The bond holders have formed a "protective" committee headed by Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, former British consul-general in New York, to prosecute their case.

The "protective" committee of bondholders was organized to take united action against the United States' suspension of the gold clause, which provided that securities, such as Liberty bonds, would be paid in gold.

Fuel to Rising Resentment.

The United Press learned from members of the committee of its formation and the intended vigorous court action following dispatches tonight from Washington, reporting the measure to repeal the gold standard act.

The secretary of the committee, Lieut. Col. Norman G. Thwaites, declared that the gold standard act repeal measure would not deter the individual Britons from pursuing legal action against the United States Government.

The repeal measure, in the opinion of leading financial experts, is certain to add fuel to the rising resentment which has been one result of President Roosevelt's suspension of the gold clause some weeks ago.

Denounced as Dishonest.

The action is regarded here as an effort to strengthen by legal backing a decision which the financial district here almost unanimously denounced as "dishonest."

It was predicted that the United States Supreme Court will not uphold the President's action.

Although financial experts in London said they did not expect any drastic decline in the dollar as result of the gold act repeal move in Washington, they pointed out if it did decline sharply one of the nations agreeing to the Roosevelt tariff truce might be justified in reconvening the organizing committee of the World Economic Conference to consider whether the American action was not contrary to the pact.

Objectors Fail to Greet Hitler Envoy at Chicago

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—A demonstration promised by several groups upon the arrival today of Hans Weidemann, Chancellor Hitler's "envoy" to the Century of Progress, failed to materialize.

Extra police hastened to the airport before he and a companion arrived from Newark, N. J., and escorted the pair to their hotel. Authorities said none of the demonstrators appeared in protest of Hitler policies as they did in New York City when Weidemann arrived from Europe.

500 Are Reported Dead In Island Forest Fires

London (Saturday), May 27 (U.P.).—A Tokyo dispatch to the Daily Telegraph today reported that 500 persons were dead in forest fires devastating 15,000 acres of virgin forest land in Saghalin Island, off the coast of Siberia.

Roosevelt Confirms Paris Must Pay Before Negotiation for Cut.

(Associated Press.)

Franco's defaulted war debt installment must be paid before President Roosevelt will consider any revision of that country's obligations to the United States.

This information, subject of recurrent rumors, was confirmed yesterday by the Chief Executive after receiving reports of a stormy debate in the French Chamber of Deputies in which Edouard Herriot made an identical assertion.

Mr. Roosevelt also made it plain that he is expecting some payments to be made when next installments fall due on June 15, three days after the opening of the London economic conference. Mr. Roosevelt devoted a large part of his day to preparations for this conference.

Yesterday morning he talked at length with members of the American delegation and his economic experts, and in the afternoon he continued his preparatory discussion with Viscount Ishii, who is to be Japan's chief delegate at London.

Both the President and Viscount Ishii described their discussions as interesting and satisfactory. It was

GERMANY TO SEIZE PROPERTY OF REDS

Law Promulgated by Cabinet Also Provides for Subsidy to Shipping.

Berlin, May 26 (U.P.).—Confiscation of the entire properties of the Communist party and affiliated organizations in Germany was ordered by a law promulgated tonight during a five-hour session of the cabinet.

The law was based on the German juridical principle that funds accumulated for criminal purposes may be confiscated.

A law providing a Reich's subsidy to shipping of 20,000,000 marks (over $5,000,000) also was promulgated. In accordance with the enabling act passed by the Reichstag, laws promulgated by the cabinet are in effect automatically.

The cabinet also heard a report by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the recent German economic mission to America, on his conversations in Washington with President Roosevelt. The meeting was secret, as usual.

30 Injured in Riot Near City of Danzig

London, May 26 (U.P.).—Thirty persons were injured tonight in rioting near the German Free City of Danzig resulting from tense feeling stirred up by political demonstrations for the Sunday elections, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express.

Hand-to-hand fighting occurred at the seaside resort of Zoppot when Nazis, during a Nationalist demonstration, sought to tear the Nationalist flag from the roof of a casino.

Wild excitement prevailed, the dispatch said, and over 6,000 Nazi storm troopers occupied strategic positions to preserve order in the city.

Doctors Hopeful Gandhi Will Survive His Fast

Poona, India, May 26 (A.P.).—Doctors attending the Mahatma Gandhi were hopeful today the Nationalist leader will be able to survive this three weeks' fast, ending Monday noon, and the subsequent period during which it is reckoned his health will be endangered.

They believed the threat to his life will continue for as long as another three weeks. Gandhi undertook the fast in protest to the lowly lot of India's "untouchable" class.

Former South Carolina Bank President Cleared

Anderson, S. C., May 26 (A.P.).—William L. Isom, former president of the American National Bank of Spartanburg, was acquitted in Federal court here today of a charge of misapplying funds of the bank.

Isom was alleged to have overdrawn his personal account by about $12,000 shortly before he resigned as president of the bank in 1930. The bank closed in 1931. He testified he would have repaid the obligations if he had remained as president of the bank.

Would Legalize Fact Existing in Gold Embargo.

Speedy Action Seen; Paper Money Is Included.

(Associated Press.)

The administration moved yesterday to elevate silver and paper money to the same legal standing as gold.

A bill sent to Congress by the Treasury was started on its way toward passage in both House and Senate. It is designed to authorize the use of legal tender money in the fulfillment of all existing and future contracts, private and international.

The measure brought an immediate assertion from Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, that the measure would be held unconstitutional "if there is any intergrity left in the courts with regard to the sanctity of contracts."

Despite Outspoken Opposition.

It was described by President Roosevelt as simply designed to legalize an already existing fact since the United States went off the gold standard in effect by the imposition of the recent gold embargo and the issuance of the Presidential order calling in gold held by private citizens.

The proposal would permit the Government as well as private debtors to meet their obligations with legal tender money instead of gold.

Despite outspoken opposition from some members on both sides, plans were made for its speedy consideration.

Campaign on Hoarding.

Secretary Woodin and Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee, in explanation of the measure, said it was needed to facilitate administration of the Government's campaign against hoarding and to remove any question of bad faith in connection with forthcoming Government loans.

Few congressional leadears would comment on the legislation without further study, but Senator McNary, the Republican leader, predicted it would meet with opposition "because of the retroactive feature."

This resolution, introduced by Chairmen Fletcher and Steagall of the Senate and House Banking Committees, respectively, asserted that "the holdings or dealings in gold affect the public interest, and are therefore subject to proper regulation and restriction."

It then asserted that obligations "which purport to give the obligee a right to require payment in gold of a particular kind obstruct the power of the Congress to regulate the money of the United States and are inconsistent with the declared policy of the Congress to maintain at all times the equal power of every dollar."

With this preamble, the resolution then proceeded to declare all such

Mercury of 89 Cut To 75 by Shower

The mercury, which climbed slowly to 89 degrees after starting at a low of 68 early yesterday morning, was lowered rapidly by the afternoon thundershower. From 4:30 p. m. until 5 p. m. it dropped from 86 to 75 degrees. Showers today will keep the city cooler, the Weather Bureau forecast.

The bureau had forecast a temperature well up in the nineties for yesterday, but the cloudiness of the earlier afternoon halted the rise of the mercury.

The highest reading of the month, 91 degrees, was recorded Wednesday.

CHEST ASKS REFUND ON DISTRICT RELIEF

Commissioners Defer Action on $350,000 Advance for Capital Needy.

Community Chest representatives yesterday appealed to the District Commissioners for reimbursement of $350,000 given the District government for unemployment relief in times when congressional appropriations were inadequate.

The Commissioners listened sympathetically to the request but took no action pending a probable hearing before the Senate or House District Committees, to which Chest officials have already appealed. No provision, however, has been made for such a refund in any of the public welfare budgets.

The general impression of District officials at the time of the donations—$250,000, in 1931, and $100,000 last year—was that the funds were a gift. The first amount went to the District Committee on Employment, a municipal-civic organization, and not to the existing emergency relief organization. The $100,000 was given last December when the original $300,000 relief appropriation was near exhaustion.

The delegation heard yesterday by the Commissioners included Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, Mrs. John Jay O'Connor and Mrs. W. A. Roberts. Auditor Daniel J. Donovan and George S. Wilson, public welfare director, also attended.

District public welfare relief for unemployed is gradually being extended to relieve private charitable agencies entirely of unemployment cases. It is expected that all such work will come under this municipal welfare board with the passage of the District appropriations act and $135,000 provided by the Federal Government under the national emergency relief act.

Famous Publisher Expires in Poverty

London, May 26 (A.P.).—Horatio Bottomley, journalist, politician and financier, and once possessor of a great fortune, died today at the age of 77, comparatively penniless, after a long illness.

Publisher of the weekly newspaper, John Bull, Bottomley was a popular figure in the period of the World War. During that conflict he was a highly successful campaigner for enlistments in the British armies and for subscriptions to the British war loans.

But his fortune and popularity crashed in 1922 when he was convicted of converting to his own use £5,000 of the funds he had helped to raise to carry on the war. Five years later he came out from prison with impaired health. In recent years his situation was so distressing he appealed for an old-age pension of a few shillings a week.

Son of Cannon Attempts To Stop Vote on Repeal

San Francisco, May 26 (A.P.).—An attempt to prevent a vote in California June 27 on repeal of the eighteenth amendment was made here today by the filing in the State Supreme Court of a petition for a writ of mandate to bar from the ballot the names of both repeal and anti-repeal candidates for a State convention.

The petition was filed by Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr.; Frank G. H. Stevens, Robert A. Gandy and Thurlow A. Taft, all of Los Angeles.

take the stand Wednesday morning, if the inquiry is resumed then.

Senator Glass said that his inquiry into procedure, which he had begun to press at the first session last Tuesday morning, was dictated by his regard for dignity of the Senate of the United States. After again characterizing this week's performance as a "circus" which lacked "only peanuts and colored lemonade," Senator Glass appealed to Chairman Fletcher for a consideration of long established rules of committee procedure.

"I am not careful of the House of Morgan," the fiery Virginian shouted, "except that I am careful for the dignity and orderly procedure of this committee. And as one member of this committee, I do not intend to see any injustice done to the House of Morgan or any other house, whether it be of large consequence or of litle consequence, or of no consequence. That is my attitude, and it is the attitude I intend to maintain to the end of these hearings. I am not afraid to do J. P. Morgan & Co. justice, and if they have done anything they ought not to have done, I am not afraid to legislate accordingly."

Storm Breaks Suddenly.

The storm of the committee differences broke with the suddenness of a thunderbolt only a few minutes before 1 o'clock, the hour agreed upon in the executive session for adjournment of the public hearings.

Pecora moved to excuse Mr. Howard from the witness chair and to recall George Whitney, the Morgan partner who had borne the brunt of the inquiry, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Just a moment," Senator Glass interposed. Then, addressing himself pointedly to Senator Fletcher, he continued:

"Mr. Chairman, I am tired of sitting around the table here in absolute ignorance of where we are going, or where we are being taken, or what is expected to be adduced from the examination of the witnesses. I think the members of the committee are entitled to know some of these things so that they may receive the testimony with some degree of appreciation of its significance, if it has any, and that they may themselves interrogate witnesses with some degree of intelligence. I do not know what all this has meant this morning.

"I want to ask the witness now if any of the transactions enumerated have been, to his knowledge or belief, contrary to the law of any of the States in which this company operates, or contrary to any Federal statute."

"No, sir," Mr. Howard answered.

Glass Presses Question.

When Senator Glass brought out that all the material covered in the morning's examination had been detailed in the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry, Pecora interposed:

"I learned that for the first time a day or two ago from the public press."

The throng leaned forward in tense expectancy as Glass pressed his inquiry. Senator Barkley brought out that the Federal Trade Commission's report on United Corporation had been submitted to the Senate several months ago.

As Senator Glass sought details concerning the United Corporation's stock sales, Senator Couzens demanded of Chairman Fletcher:

"While they are looking that up, Mr. Chairman, I wonder if we could get an answer to Senator Glass' question as to what this is all about."

"I do not see how we can anticipate what Mr. Pecora expects to develop," Senator Fletcher responded.

Senator Glass—But, Mr. Chairman, we could have anticipated if the committee had been told by counsel what he wanted to prove.

Mr. Pecora—I shall be very glad to comply with the senator's suggestion and answer as to what it is all about, or at least what, in my humble opinion, it is all about.

At this point, Pecora read into the record the resolution he had drafted authorizing the enlarged inquiry. Among other things it authorized "a thorough and complete investigation of the business conduct and practices of security exchanges and the members thereof."

Couzens Demands Ruling.

Senator Couzens then demanded an explicit ruling from the chair "whether we are proceeding under the resolution?"

Senator Fletcher—We are proceeding under the resolution, and following that resolution the subcommittee met and selected Mr. Pecora as their counsel and instructed him to proceed, in accordance with that resolution, with this investigation.

Senator Couzens—I ask the chair if that is not a complete answer to the senator from Virginia.

Senator Glass—No, it is not. The senator from Virginia can answer for himself, and not have the chairman or any other member of this committee answer for him.

The Chairman—That is the authority under which we are acting and that is the authority under which we are proceeding——

Senator Glass: Hold on. The senator from Virginia is going to express himself, and there is no authority in this committee to prevent him from expressing himself. I say that in compliance with this resolution Mr. Pecora and his numerous investigators went to New York and made this preliminary investigation, having had access to all of the books of this and perhaps other concerns—we do not know how many other concerns; he obtained apparently complete information as to those things—and I have said, and I insist now, that it was his duty to have come here to Washington and have appeared before the subcommittee, of which I am a member, and have told us what he found, what significance he attached to what he found, and what he proposed to establish by the investigation before this committee, and not to have brought the members of the committee here before a crowded assembly room without knowing one solitary thing about the meaning of all this. And I say that is so, and other members of the committee agree with me.

Pecora's Employment.

Mr. Pecora—May I remind Senator Glass that after the enactment——

The Chairman—The minutes have not been written up, then. That is all I can say about that. I know he was employed, and the subcommittee did it unanimously.

Senator Glass—So far as that is concerned, now, since the Senator from Michigan raises the issue, I have examined the minutes of the various meetings of the subcommittee, and I do not find that at any meeting of the subcommittee the employment of Mr. Pecora was authorized.

Senator Costigan—I agree with what the chairman says, as a member of the subcommittee. There can be no question in my judgment about the employment of Mr. Pecora.

Senator Glass—I have within the three last hours examined the minutes in detail. It may have been that the employment was authorized, but there is no record of it.

Senator Byrnes, who has spoken for President Roosevelt on many legislative matters in the Senate during the last two months, suggested at this point that perhaps it would hasten matters if Mr. Pecora would "make a statement instead of propounding all these questions."

Pecora's Explanation.

Senator Glass again insisted it was improper for Pecora to direct the course of the inquiry without informing the committee of his aims and purposes.

Pecora replied that since early March he had been continuously in New York on the preparatory work.

"Since that time I have received not a single request from any senator on the committee for any further or more specific advices or information concerning what I was doing," he said. "* * * And I want to add that I did not seek this assignment as counsel to the committee. I appreciated and I still appreciate the honor and the dignity and opportunity for service in having been asked to serve as committee counsel. I have been happy to render whatever service, modestly, I could render as counsel to the committee; and I want to assure Senator Glass that the compensation of $255 a month which I am receiving for these services certainly is no incentive to me to render these services or to continue to render them." (Applause.)

"And I do not imagine," said Senator Glass, "that counsel for the committee is working just for the $255 a month. Far from it."

At the morning executive session, the committee rejected Pecora's request that the indebtedness of the various Morgan partners to the firm be published.

Mayor Hoan Asks R.F.C. Aid for Municipalities

(Associated Press.)

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist Mayor of Milwaukee, yesterday laid before the Senate Finance Committee an appeal that the Reconstruction Corporation be empowered to buy or lend upon municipal tax anticipation warrants.

Spokesman for a committee of mayors of the 50 largest American cities, Hoan said the industrial recovery-public works bill "will not serve the purpose" unless some financial relief is extended the municipalities.

SENATE BODY VOTE FAVORS HELVERING

A. W. Weddell, Richmond, Is Nominated Ambassador to Argentina.

As President Roosevelt yesterday nominated Alexander W. Weddell, of Richmond, as Ambassador to Argentina, a Senate committee after long consideration reported favorably the nomination of Guy T. Helvering, of Kansas, as Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The President yesterday also sent to the Senate the nominations of William Zimmerman, jr., to be Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Clarence E. Gauss to be a foreign service officer and a secretary in the diplomatic service, James R. Fleming to be United States attorney for the Northern District of Indiana and Val Nolan for a similar post in the Southern District.

Walsh Opposes Helvering.

Ten members, all Democrats, of the Senate Finance Committee, voted for Helvering's confirmation after several weeks of hearings. Six more committeemen, Republicans, and Senator Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, voted against a favorable report. A minority report on the appointee probably will be filed and the Republicans are expected to attack the appointment again on the floor. With the vote splitting mainly along party lines, however, it is expected that he will be confirmed.

Mr. Weddell has behind him 20 years of service in the diplomatic service, which he entered in 1908 as private secretary to the Minister to Denmark. A career which included difficult work in the Near East during the war ended temporarily in 1928 when he retired as consul general at Mexico City.

Thomas Hewes Approved.

The Senate Finance Committee yesterday also approved unanimously the nomination of Thomas Hewes, of Hartford, Conn., as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Walter T. Doyle as collector of customs at Honolulu as the House received a favorable report on the bill allowing the President to appoint the governor of Hawaii from the mainland. Such legislation was asked by the President after the islanders had been unable to agree on a candidate for the governorship.

Confirmation of Arthur E. Morgan as head of the board to direct the Tennessee Basin development was halted by Senator Clarke (Dem.), Missouri, who asked an inquiry into Morgan's stand on flood control. A nonpresidential appointment was made yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who named Oscar Johnson, of Mississippi, as finance administrator of the new farm relief movement. Mr. Johnson was formerly Democratic national committeeman from Mississippi.

Thompson Takes Oath Of Nebraska Senator

(Associated Press.)

William H. Thompson, former member of the Supreme Court of Nebraska, took the oath as the new Democratic senator from that State yesterday, succeeding the late Robert B. Howell, a Republican.

Thompson, who is from Grand Island, was appointed to the seat by Gov. Charles W. Bryan. He will serve until January, 1934, when Howell's term expires.

TRIAL SITE OF IOWA FARM MOB SHIFTED

6 Plead Guilty in Attack on Judge and Will Receive Sentences Today.

Le Mars, Iowa, May 26 (A.P.).—Judge Earl Peters late today granted a prosecution motion for a change of venue for trial of farmers arrested in connection with the abduction and beating of Judge C. C. Bradley last month.

Sitting on the Plymouth County bench from which an angry mob dragged his colleague last month, Judge Peters named Orange City in Sioux County as the place and June 5 as the date for the trial of Richard Popken on a charge of technical assault.

Six other defendants, sorted from among scores of farmers arrested during the recent disturbances over Iowa mortgage foreclosures, pleaded guilty earlier in the day. They will be sentenced tomorrow.

Three others, including Morris Cope, alleged leader of the group which attacked Judge Bradley, are sought.

Judge Bradley refused to swear, as the mob demanded, that he would not sign proceedings involving foreclosures on farm mortgages.

Nineteen-year-old John Sokolovake and Lawrence Krause, 20, pleaded guilty to charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, and unlawful assembly.

Martin Rosburg, 45, who, military officials said, was the first of the mob of 125 to grapple with Judge Bradley, will be sentenced for interfering with the administration of justice and for assault.

To be sentenced on the assault charge alone were Theodore Hardman, 35; Walter Idsker, 33, and Albert Kaiser, 45. All are farmers living near Le Mars.

WATSON MILITARY AID TO ROOSEVELT

Lieutenant Colonel, Former Wilson Attache, Expert on European Affairs.

Lieut. Col. Edwin M. Watson, U. S. A., Field Artillery, former military aid to President Wilson and chief of the military section of the peace commission in Paris, has been detailed as military aid to President Roosevelt, it was announced yesterday at the War Department.

The selection of Col. Watson, one of the Army's most experienced officers in European military affairs, lends credence to the report that President Roosevelt plans to go abroad for a series of conferences sometime in the future and is desirous of surrounding himself with men familiar with conditions there.

Lieut. Col. Campbell Hodges, U. S. A. Infantry, aid to President Hoover, has been relieved from duty effective June 1. In addition to serving as Presidential aid, Lieut. Col. Hodges has been completing a course of study at the Army War College.

Lieut. Col. Watson was born at Eufaula, Ala., December 10, 1883. He was appointed to the Military Academy from that State and was graduated in 1908. He came to Washington as assistant superintendent of public buildings and grounds in September, 1915. At this time he also served as a White House aid to President Wilson.

He served throughout the war, participating in engagements at Bois Belleau, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, in the Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne Sector. He was chief of the Military Section of the Peace Commission in Paris and served also as junior aid to President Wilson at this time.

Lieut. Col. Watson served in the office of the Chief of the Field Artillery here after the war until 1920. He later went to France to attend the French Military Schools and in 1927 went abroad again as Military Attache to the Embassy in Brussels, Belgium.

Col. Watson was cited for gallantry in action against the enemy in the St. Mihiel Sector. He has been awarded the Croix de Guerre and made a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor. He is an officer of the Order of the Crown of Belgium and a Commander of the Order of Prince Danilo of Montenegro.

Repeal to Abolish Gang, Farley Says

"Repeal will abolish the speakeasy, the bootlegger and the gangster and will make for a greater degree of temperance," Postmaster General Farley said yesterday in a newareel address.

"The Democratic party is pledged to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," he declared. "The party platform demands it and President Roosevelt is earnestly advocating it. Therefore, there seems to be no question as to what should be the attitude of Democrats."

"The importance of repeal," he went on, "should appeal to all of our people, regardless of party affiliations. Another reason for repeal is that vast sums which have been going to the speakeasies, bootleggers and gangsters will flow into the Treasury of the United States. This will materially lessen the tax burden now borne by the American people. Reemployment taxes can be eliminated when and if the eighteenth amendment is repealed," he concluded.

Advertising Club Elects Barkdull

The Advertising Club of Washington yesterday elected Walter Barkdull, of the Washington Times, president.

Vincent F. Callahan, of the National Broadcasting Co., was chosen second vice president. Newly elected directors also included F. P. Guthrie, of Radio Communications; James W. Hardey, of Woodward & Lothrop's; Elwood Street, Community Chest; Bernie Veins, D. C. Engraving Co., and Franklin C. Wheeler, Washington Herald.

William T. Pierson, music publisher, was promoted to first vice president and W. N. Freeman and Charles J. Columbus were reelected treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Truck Driver Held After Tip by Hiker

Arrested Thursday when a hitchhiker whom he had given a ride alighted from his truck at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, and informed a nearby policeman that there was liquor on the truck, Francis Haddon, 19 years old, yesterday was held under a $500 bond when arraigned in Police Court.

Haddon had driven his truck only a few blocks after the hiker alighted when he was overhauled and arrested because of the information given by his erstwhile guest.

Police said they found a large quantity of liquor concealed beneath several crates of eggs in the truck.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAW TO RAISE SILVER AND PAPER MONEY

provisions "to be against public policy" and forbid any such provision in future obligations.

Aim of the Legislation.

The aim of the legislation was sketched in the following paragraphs:

"Every obligation, heretofore or hereafter incurred whether or not any such provision is contained therein or made with respect thereto, shall be discharged upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which at the time of payment is legal tender for public and private debts.

"Any such provision contained in any law authorizing obligations to be issued by or under authority of the United States is hereby repealed."

Legality of the gold clause in public and private contracts has been a moot question since President Roosevelt took the Nation off the gold standard and issued regulations against the hoarding of the metal.

Chairman Steagall said the resolution was a move to "repeal the gold standard by statute."

Second Liberty Bond Act.

Fletcher said it would specifically repeal the "gold clauses" in the acts of 1910, the second Liberty bond act and subsequent legislation.

He made public a memorandum calling the legislation of "utmost importance" because:

"(A) It completely regularizes the present de facto situation as to both public and private debts.

"(B) An offering of Treasury obligations must be announced on June 5 and issued June 15. It is essential that no question as to the good faith of the Government be raised in connection with this issue or future issues.

"(C) It would greatly facilitate administration of the orders against hoarding.

Would Eliminate Uncertainty.

"(E) It places old 'gold clause' and new 'legal tender' obligations on the same footing in respect of payment.

Explaining further, Fletcher's memorandum said "questions of interpretation" had arisen with respect to legislation empowering the President to prevent the withdrawal and hoarding of gold and the Thomas inflation amendment.

The memorandum pointed out that gold is not now obtainable for payment of obligations and that the Thomas amendment was intended to make them payable in legal tender money but that doubt had arisen because of the "gold clause" in some contracts.

Will be Considered Monday.

"This doubt should be removed," the memorandum said, adding:

"Future issues of government obligations should be payable in lawful currency of the United States and not in any specific coin. To promise to do otherwise under the present circumstances would open the Government to severe and merited criticism.

"This, however, requires legislation amending existing statutes relating to Government obligations. It is essential that all obligations of the Government, past and future, be treated alike."

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, told the House the bill would be considered in the House Monday.

Bankers See Currency Status Clearing in Bill

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—The action of the administration in suggesting legislation to put the United States off the gold standard by statute was interpreted in high banking quarters here today as a measure to deal solely with the anomolous situation resulting from the gold clause in billions of dollars of Government and corporate bonds and of other obligations.

Gold legislation seemingly would not otherwise in effect change the currency situation, since the country is already off the gold standard. Under present laws, one banking authority pointed out, the United States Treasury is compelled to issue bonds payable in gold, despite the fact that it is now illegal to pay out gold.

The proposed legislation, this authority pointed out, would therefore save the Treasury embarrassment in its next financing.

MERIT PLAN URGED FOR RECOVERY BILL

Committee Monday at 10 a. m. to argue the case for District highway aid.

They will point out that the District now pays more income tax than 16 of the 48 States combined, and would be required to contribute proportionately toward the amortization of the huge $3,300,000,000 expenditure for public works authorized under the bill. Statistics disclosed that the District last year paid the Government in Federal gasoline tax more than 13 States combined.

It was stated that Virginia will receive $8,000,000 and Maryland will receive $4,000,000 for highway construction under the act, while the District, which has 1,125 miles of streets, will receive no aid at all.

Miss Sherwin yesterday wrote Senator Harrison:

"There are today on the registers of the Civil Service Commission in Washington and in the regional offices thousands of qualified men and women ready for work immediately. They have taken the civil service examinations in good faith, believing that the Government would continue its established policy of choosing workers who are best qualified for the jobs."

BAKERS FAVOR PLAN FOR FARM REWARDS

Urge Flour Processing Tax to Pay Bonus for Cutting Wheat Production.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of bakers and dealers associations came to the support of organized wheat growers yesterday in advocating use of processing taxes on flour to make possible the payment of rewards to farmers who agree to reduce their output.

The first conference called by administrators of the farm adjustment act to work out a wheat plan found the bakers and dealers aligned with the growers for early use of the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

The growers suggested that a processing tax be levied by August 1, and that 70 per cent of the benefits be paid this summer to farmers agreeing to cut production next year. They estimated that this portion of the benefits to farmers would amount to $231,000,000.

The main opposition to a program to tax flour came from F. Hutchinson, of Chicago, president of the Millers National Federation. He said it would greatly increase the cost of bread and other bakery products and cause consumers to seek substitutes.

Hutchinson asserted that any tax of more than 10 cents a bushel would be injurious to the milling industry, and would tend to cut consumption of flour.

M. W. Thatcher, of the Farmers National Grain Corporation of Chicago, presented the plan of organized wheat growers which was also supported by spokesmen for the Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange.

He said an "emergency" exists among wheat growers because of low prices and heavy abandonment of winter wheat acreage due to bad weather conditions in the last few months. He added that a program could not be applied to wheat now planted but should be put into effect quickly to utilize the allotment plan in preparation for the planting of winter wheat this fall.

Medical Officers' Memorials Ready

Friends and relatives of the late Maj. Gen. William C. Gorgas, Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy and Col. John Van R. Hoff, distinguished officers of the medical department, have procured oil portraits of these distinguished officers done by Bernhard Godwin, of New York and Washington.

The portraits will be presented to the commanding general of the Army Medical Center to be placed in the halls of important buildings of the center as memorials.

The presentation ceremony will take place next Tuesday, Memorial Day, with appropriate ceremonies in the auditorium of the Army Medical School. Personnel of the Army and friends and relatives of the deceased officers whose memory is to be honored are invited to attend.

Volksfest Planned For Walch Grove

Thousands of German-Americans are expected to gather from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other points for the initiation of the first real Volksfest since the return of beer, to be held at Walch Grove, June 4.

The festival, famous throughout Europe, will be held in celebration of Roosevelt's "new deal." As a non-political gesture of good will and good fellowship the German-Americans have issued a general invitation to the public.

The festivities will begin at 1 p. m. at the grove on the Crain highway. Two orchestras will furnish music and sketches of "old country" performances will be featured throughout the afternoon. Volk festivals were popular in the United States during pre-war days.

MEANS SENTENCED TO TWO-YEAR TERM

Whitaker Gets Same Penalty on Charge of Defrauding Mrs. McLean.

Overruling their motions for new trials, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in District Supreme Court yesterday sentenced Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker to serve two-year terms. The maximum penalty would have included $10,000 fines for the pair.

Means and Whitaker were found guilty of conspiring to steal $35,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean. They told her, Government witnesses said, that they could secure the return of the Lindbergh baby by giving her $35,000 to the kidnapers in return for $49,000 in "hot" money that the kidnapers had.

This money was "hot" because the numbers on the bills were said to have been taken down by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh before he passed the money, through "Jafsie," to the kidnapers.

Means is already serving a 15-year-term following his conviction on charges of stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean. This money, it was shown at Means' trial, was to have been used as ransom money to effect the return of the Lindbergh baby.

Attorney Joseph Turco, in arguing for a new trial for Whitaker, declared it was error for Justice O'Donoghue to instruct the jury that the verdict must be guilty or not guilty as to both defendants, that the jury could not find one guilty and the other not guilty. Both men noted appeals from the refusal to grant new trials.

Senator Would Probe Forest Goods Buying

TWO STATES VOTE ON REPEAL TODAY

Delaware and Nevada End Vigorous Campaigns in Dry Law Fights.

Wilmington, Del., May 26 (A.P.).—Friends and foes of prohibition ended a vigorous campaign tonight, prepared to convert words into ballots tomorrow.

Fourth Eastern State to vote on the issue of repealing national prohibition, this little Commonwealth is expected to muster its full voting strength of 100,000.

It will elect seventeen delegates at large to a convention in Dover June 24 to act on the proposed amendment to annul the eighteenth amendment.

Reno, Nev., May 26 (A.P.).—Nevada's 54,000 registered voters are expected to indicate tomorrow their approval of the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Gathering in precinct mass meeting, they will select delegates to county conventions. These conventions on June 10 will name delegates to a State convention, which will take final action early in September.

Antiprohibitionists issued last-minute requests for all opposed to the eighteenth amendment to "turn out and repeat the verdict of a few years ago" when a 3-to-1 popular vote was recorded in favor of a legislative resolution urging national repeal.

Since 1923 Nevada has had no State dry law. Prohibition has been unenforced except by Federal authorities.

Four States—Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Michigan and Wyoming—have ratified the repeal amendment. Repeal has been voted in New York and New Jersey, but the conventions have not been held yet.

SLAYER OF BROTHER GETS 3 TO 15 YEARS

Former Police Engineer Held Amnesia Victim; Given Indeterminate Term.

Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court, yesterday sentenced Charles Donaldson, slayer of his brother, Silas Donaldson, to an indeterminate sentence of from 3 to 15 years in prison.

Donaldson was convicted of manslaughter, though he went to trial on a first degree murder charge. In his own defense he pleaded that at the time of the shooting he was in a "dream state" and did not know what he was doing. His attorneys, Henry Schweinhaut and Lucian Vandoren, produced medical testimony to show that the slayer was probably suffering from amnesia.

Two others were allegedly slain by Donaldson when he went on a drink-crazed rampage in his home at 923 Maryland avenue southwest last January. The victims were his niece and nephew, May, 15, and George Donaldson, 18.

As police reconstructed the shooting, Donaldson first shot his nephew, George, who was attempting to prevent him from entering Mary's room. He then shot Mary, and when her father went to quell the man he also was shot. The father, Silas Donaldson, attempted to use a small pocket knife in self-defense, but he died while he grappled with his brother. Irvin Goldstein, assistant United States attorney, prosecuted Donaldson, who was formerly an engineer at Police Headquarters.

Vast War Supplies Smuggled to Cuba

Miami, Fla., May 26 (A.P.).—Usually reliable sources in the Cuban refugee colony here said today they had received reports that approximately 500,000 rounds of ammunition had been smuggled through the Florida Keys during the past several days and landed in Cuba.

However, officials of the Cuban Revolutionary Junta denied that the Junta was connected with the reported shipments or had knowledge of them.

The reports said the shipments were made in small boats which, in addition to the ammunition, carried a number of rifles and about 20 machine guns.

In Cuba the ammunition and guns, it was reported, were turned over to small bands of rebels opposed to President Gerardo Machado.

G. V. HORGAN, PAINT EXECUTIVE, IS DEAD

Was Leader in Several Trade Associations; Burial to Be in New York.

George Vincent Horgan, 56, general manager and secretary of the National Paint, Oil & Varnish Association, Inc., and the American Paint & Varnish Manufacturers Association, Inc., died Thursday at his apartment in the Shoreham Hotel after a long illness.

A native of Oswego, N. Y., Mr. Horgan had a long and distinguished career in trade association work. Following his early schooling, he received his college education in a Jesuit college. This was supplemented by a course in a school of business and commerce.

His early business experience included service as private secretary to John B. Stanfield, a leading trial lawyer of his day, and in various capacities with the Erie and Lackawanna railroads, the New York Public Service Commission and the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce.

In Buffalo, Mr. Horgan's contact with the late John H. McNulty, of Pratt & Lambert, Inc., resulted in his employment in 1916 as the first full-time secretary of the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association, Inc. Since that time Mr. Horgan was continuously engaged in association work in the paint and varnish industry, with the exception of the World War period, when he served as manager of the personnel division of the Chemical Warfare Service.

One of the achievements during Mr. Horgan's administration was the winning, last year, of the annual award of the American Trade Association Executives, covering the activities under his general management "for successfully operating a comprehensive, well coordinated and effective program in the interest both of the public and the industry."

Mr. Horgan served a term as president of the Trade Association Executives of New York. He was a member of the Union League Club of New York and numbered among his friends and intimate associates many prominent figures in national life.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Richardson and Miss Letitia Horgan, of Elmira, N. Y.

RECOVERY MEASURE PASSED BY HOUSE

70 per cent in loans and 30 per cent in outright gifts.

In addition, $400,000,000 is to be given the States for highway construction. This is to be distributed on the basis of one-half for population, and a fourth each for area and post road mileage.

This allocation was inserted in an administration amendment offered by Chairman Doughton (Democrat), North Narolina, of the Ways and Means Committee, who piloted the measure through the House.

Big Federal Program.

Attempts were made by Representatives Fuller (Democrat), Arkansas, and Blanton (Democrat), Texas, to restore the old basis of allocation of one-third each on population, area and post road mileage in the States. On a final record vote, however, the change was approved, 222 to 181.

The balance of about $900,000,000 is to be expended on Federal projects, including a $100,000,000 naval construction program, public buildings, rivers and harbors, flood control and for preservation of natural resources.

Already the administration is preparing to put the works under this legislation into effect. Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, retired, is to become the administrator of the industrial section of the bill.

A public works administration will handle expenditures of the $3,300,000,000 fund. The loaning facilities and authority of the Reconstruction Corporation, as far as self-liquidating projects are concerned, are to be transferred to him. Meanwhile, the act reduced by $1,200,000,000 the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation.

Power Tax Transferred.

Sixty-four Democrats and 73 Republicans voted for the sales tax, while 228 Democrats, 32 Republicans and 5 Farmer-Laborites voted against.

Without any trouble, the Whittington amendment to transfer the existing 3 per cent electricity tax from the consumer to the producer was adopted along with a number of perfecting amendments.

Passage came after two days of debate. Democratic leaders Thursday managed to have a rule of procedure adopted by a margin of only 19 votes. This rule prevented all but the Ways and Means Committee members from offering amendments and held off a deluge of proposals to change the bill.

Regaining control of their huge majority yesterday, however, the Democratic leaders brought their full influence to bear against opponents, sandwiching their speakers in evenly between those of opponents.

Staunton Military Academy Head Leaps Out of Hospital Window.

Philadelphia, May 26 (A.P.).—Col. Thomas H. Russell, president of the Staunton Military Academy, of Staunton, Va., plunged to his death today from the window of a hospital where he had been under treatment for a nervous ailment.

Col. Russell, who was 53 years old, was admitted to the hospital May 18 under care of a Philadelphia physician and had been in a private room on the third floor of the institution.

Hospital attendants said he was considered sufficiently recovered today to be permitted to stroll about the corridor. He plunged from a window at one end of the hall.

Col. Russell was a widely-known educator. His wife was the daughter of the founder of the Staunton Academy. He was commandant of cadets at the Horner Military School from 1902 to 1904 and went to the Staunton Academy in 1920.

Japan Announces Oral Truce Accord

Tokyo, May 26 (A.P.).—The oral conclusion of a formal promise as the initial step in a preliminary truce for the north China war zone was announced today by the Japanese foreign office.

Realization of this truce, the foreign office said, will depend upon cessation of "provocations" on the part of the Chinese.

Efforts will be made, the Japanese asserted, to prevent publication of the truce in China to permit Chinese military authorities to "save their face" before their fellow countrymen.

(Chinese officials have not made any positive announcement of a Sino-Japanese truce.)

Japanese representatives in other countries were instructed to inform foreign governments of the truce and newspapers correspondents were permitted to report the information upon being given out here.

Police Arrest 45 At T N T Meeting

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—The Trucking and Transportation Agency, alleged to be controlled by gangsters, scheduled a meeting today in the Bismarck Hotel, but the police carted the meeting away.

Forty-five men were arrested one by one as they arrived and admitted they were there to attend the "T N T" conference. Five alleged leaders were sent to the bureau of identification and the other 40 were taken to the police headquarters for examination.

The city has declared the agency outlawed, police charging that it was bossed by Murray Humphreys, public enemy No. 1, and William "Three-Fingered Jack" White, who through it control most of the city's teaming business by dictating contracts between union teamsters and trucking companies.

The entry of the Adjustment Administration into the scrutiny of milk prices in Washington will supplement the investigation to be made by a subcommittee of the Senate District Committee to determine whether there is a milk trust in operation in the District which is holding up retail prices.

The lead in this investigation has been taken by Senator King. He will appoint the subcommittee at a meeting of the Senate District Committee Monday. The hearings are expected to begin within 10 days after the appointment of the subcommittee.

Anacostia Citizens Club Supports Milk Inquiry

Supporting a city-wide demand for a thorough probe of milk prices in Washington, the Anacostia Citizens Association last night indorsed The Washington Post's revelation of excessive milk prices here.

The resolution was presented by Capt. William N. Dent, who characterized the necessity for a reasonably reduced milk cost as extremely vital to the welfare of the city.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the association, described The Post's articles as of invaluable benefit to the city.

VIENNA, VA., STATION FIRED BY LIGHTNING

Second Loss for Arlington-Fairfax Railway in as Many Weeks.

For the second time in as many weeks the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co. yesterday suffered serious loss from lightning and fire when the station at Vienna, Va., was set afire by lightning. About two weeks ago a trolley car was struck at Fairfax and badly damaged.

J. C. Horseman, operator of the substation, and ticket agent of the Vienna station, reported lightning struck a high tension feeder line some distance from the station. The bolt followed the wire into the transformers and control panel, completely wrecking them, and setting fire to the old frame building. The flames spread rapidly into the attic and through the upper story of the building. Horseman, stunned by the bolt, was unable to immediately pull the safety switches.

He recovered sufficiently to attempt to reach the switches, but was cut off by the blaze. Fighting his way through the smoke and flames, he managed to spread the alarm and neighbors called the Vienna volunteer fire department. The firemen were delayed until word could be sent to the main station at Lacey to cut off all current on the lines. The flames had made such headway that additional help was summoned from the Fairfax department. Water was obtained from a nearby stream, swollen by the heavy rain.

Traffic was suspended on the line for almost two hours until temporary repairs could be made.

The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Albuquerque, N. Mex., May 26 (A.P.).—Restaurants and soft-drink stands placed 3.2 beer on sale here today, following a ruling by District Judge Milton J. Helmick yesterday that the beverage is nonintoxicating and does not violate the State dry laws.

The decision had the effect of legalizing the brew in Albuquerque until the State Supreme Court rules differently. Judge Helmick freed E. E. Ham, who was charged with selling 3.2 beer.

Fred Horowitz, special Government prosecutor, filed the brief with the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, from which Foshay and Henley seek reversal of their convictions, which brought sentences of 15 years in prison and $1,000 fines.

Foshay and Henley in a brief a few days ago denied guilt. Both were executives of the Foshay companies, which went into receivership in 1929.

The President's attitude regarding the French debt was disclosed at the White House yesterday afternoon.

France's defaulting payment amounted to $19,000,000. On June 15 an installment of $40,000,000 will be due from the Paris government. At the same time payments from Great Britain and numerous other countries will come due.

Paris, May 26 (A.P.).—Payment of France's defaulted war debt interest due last December was an essential condition laid down by President Roosevelt in their Washington talks for any settlement of the Franco-American debt problem, Edouard Herriot, former premier, announced in the Chamber of Deputies today.

President Roosevelt told him, M. Herriot said, in their recent Washington talks that if France would agree to pay the $19,000,000 interest installment overdue since December 15 last, negotiations for a settlement of the issue could be undertaken immediately.

"THE DEVIL'S BROTHER." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release of Jeanie MacPherson's adaptation to the screen of Auber's comic opera, "Fra Diavolo," starring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, with Dennis King, Thelma Todd and Jimmy Finlayson. Produced and directed by Hal Roach. Reviewed Friday morning.

By NELSON B. BELL.

We viewed this unique vehicle for the talents of the Messrs. Laurel and Hardy with a growing conviction that it is one of the worthiest and most substantial feature-length comedies they have had. This appraisal, however, was hedged about with numerous qualifications and provisos.

It is just possible that "The Devil's Brother" is too faithful a transcription of Daniel Fracois Esprit Auber's century-old comic opera "Fra Diavolo," for popular, present-day mass consumption. Its music is tuneful and finely scored, but of an older school than the modern ear is attuned to. It is a costume picture, the action transpiring for the greater part in and about an inn picturesquely perched upon the Italian countryside early in the nineteenth century. It presents the equivalent of two parallel narratives—one, the comedy escapades of Stanilio and Ottilio, two simple country louts, who seek to turn bandit and fall afoul of the prince of brigands; the other, the romantic tale of this master highwayman, a sort of Robin Hood of northern Italy, who robs as Fra Diavolo and conceals his real identity as the handsome Marquis de San Marco. These two plot movements are concurrent, but strangely detached, one from the other. Only occasionally do they dovetail into a single compact recital.

The result of this divergence is that when "The Devil's Brother" is not hilariously funny it is pretty apt to be less animated than it should be. More of Dennis King's splendid singing in additional numbers from the Auber opera would largely overcome this tendency to sag when Mr. Laurel and Mr. Hardy are not involved in their many ludicrous misadventures, a majority of which are extremely amusing and all rather more legitimate than we are accustomed to seeing them in.

The action centers in an outrageous flirtation, the theft of some fabulous gems and a huge sum of money and the seemingly hopeless efforts of Stanilio and Ottilio to avoid being hanged by their necks until dead as a reward of their magnificent stupidity!

Laurel and Hardy, it seems to me, have never been better than they are here in the authentic business of sustaining two well-defined and cleverly drawn characterizations. They have exceptionally able support in Dennis King, in the title role; Jimmy Finlayson, as the ever-rich Lord Rocburg; Henry Armetta, as an harassed bonifece, and Thelma Todd, who has never been so ravishingly and pictorially lovely as she is in the coquettish role of Lady Pamela, pampered and bored bride of the Rocburg. The production is one of magnitude and great scenic beauty.

Confessing to a deep-seated affection for many of these old comic operas, including "Fra Diavolo," this reviewer found "The Devil's Brother" a delightful departure from the conventional run of screen comedies with music—a work of substance, charm and humor.

The stage program is headed by that king of clowns and high priest of drollery, Mr. Herb Williams, the grotesque gentleman with the exorbitant pun for the "spoil-I-CHE," whose eager efforts to entertain are so hampered by the backstage "conspiracy" and the malevolent machinations of a lot of "wise guys" that he finally gives up—leaving his audience, it might be added, prostrate in the aisles, limp from laughing. Neither Mr. Williams' act nor his standing as one of vaudeville's greatest comedians has altered since his last comparatively recent appearance on the same stage.

Phil Lampkin's collegiate overture, enlisting the loudspeaker vocalism of Marty Rubin and a background of picturized campus activities, is his biggest hit in weeks of worthy efforts. The Fox Movietone News completes a bill that assays high in entertainment values.

METROPOLITAN

"THE STORY OF TEMPLE DRAKE." Paramount picturization of William Faulkner's "Sanctuary," featuring Miriam Hopkins, Jack LaRue, William Gargan, William Collier, jr., Irving Pichel and Sir Guy Standing. Directed by Stephen Roberts. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

A queer family, these Drakes. First Ruth was kidnaped, and now Temple has a story to tell. But the way it was told through the pen of William Faulkner, it forms a yarn that offers the cinema a challenge, at the same time compelling the makers not to be too literal in the screen translation.

Small wonder is it, then, that "The Story of Temple Drake" is unsatisfying either as a filmization of the Faulkner work or as an independent suggested offering. It seems that in this branch of the Drake family there is a periodic outcropping of a notable indifference to the seventh commandment, and Temple happens to be the current victim. The worst happens, and when one of her paramour's henchmen is framed on a murder charge, she takes the stand and tells her story.

As a motion picture, the story is a staccato recitation of episodes, which suffers from its lack of adequate characterization. A cameraman vainly trying to go UFA and an obviously slashed script.

Of course, it was something less than astute that the screen rights to "Sanctuary" were bought. Further, it is to be regretted that that distinguished British actor, Sir Guy Standing, should have had foisted upon him so unworthy a role as in this picture. For that matter, no one of the 22 named members of the cast add any laurels to the wreaths that encircle their brows. Miriam Hopkins, in the title role; Jack LaRue, as the gangster; William Gargan, as Miss Hopkins' devoted follower, and Irving Pichel, as the one indicted for murder, all play their roles in a manner as listless as the story they attempt to depict is feeble.

Director Stephen Roberts, however, has done perhaps as good a job with this adaptation as any one could.

Adding zest to the program are Mitzi Mayfair and Hal Leroy in "The Way of All Freshmen," a "collegiate" revuelet; a Looney-Tune cartoon comedy, "Bosko's Knight-Mare," and a release of the Paramount News featuring the Senate finance inquiry and J. P. Morgan.

EARLE

"THE EAGLE AND THE HAWK." Paramount's picturization of a story by John Monk Saunders, featuring Fredric March and Cary Grant, with Carole Lombard, Sir Guy Standing and Jack Oakie. Directed by Stuart Walker. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

This familiar story of the fighting front in France during the Great War surmounts the triteness of its theme by the sheer merit of Fredric March's impersonation of an American aviator with England's Royal Flying Corps.

John Monk Saunders has an almost fixed formula for the fashioning of tales of heroism in the clouds. "The Eagle and the Hawk" adheres rigidly to this pattern and presents a touch of novelty only in the picture's denouement. Here the observer who has been the arch enemy of his flying partner pays a handsome tribute to his suicide comrade, takes his lifeless body into the air and by making it appear that he was slain in combat perpetuates the heroic reputation of an ace whose sensitive nature finally crashed up under the strain of systematized murder.

There is a finely human, and humane, quality in "The Eagle and the Hawk" that can only be construed as a powerful and moving argument against the barbarity of armed conflict.

Strangely, there is no love interest whatsoever in this strictly martial narrative of men at the front under the stress of appalling conflict. Carole Lombard, to be sure, appears as a platinum siren who grasps the mental anguish of Flier Jerry Young, and the reason of it, while he is on ten days' furlough in London, but hers is a most casual contribution to the rounding of a character study that is wholly and unforgettably Fredric March's.

This portrayal by the actor whose talents have been tested by such widely variant roles as the dual part in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and the Roman Prefect in "The Sign of the Cross," comes dangerously near being one of the finest things he has done. It is a performance that reveals an enormous capacity for making very real and wholly believable many of the most poignant qualities that can be suffered by the human heart.

Playing "opposite" March, as his sullen and nerveless observer who perceives in war only a murderous chore that needs to be done thoroughly, Cary Grant is effective, but neither so convincing nor so profoundly moving as his associate.

To Jack Oakie falls a comedy role that is right down his groove—an airman with no desire to be a hero, but anxious only to be one of the war's unharmed survivors. He plays it completely up to the hilt, with a few ribald touches that Mr. Hays might not be too pleased about, if he knew!

In its aerial stunting, dog fights and fatal crashes, "The Eagle and the Hawk" preserves the best traditions of an element of thrill and suspense that long since has become commonplace.

Sir Guy Standing, Virginia Hammond, Master Douglas Scott, a remarkably precocious youngster, and a long list of others render efficient support and the camera work is beyond cavil.

Welcome Lewis headlines the vaudeville bill in a cycle of loud-speakered songs in which she is accompanied by piano, guitar and violin on the stage, in addition to the house orchestra in the pit. Estvin Kosch, announcer, also appears with Miss Lewis and contributes an Hawaiian number, self-accompanied on the ukulele, that scores as solid a hit as any of Miss Lewis' interesting and well-sung numbers.

Chester Fredericks, with Selma Damis and Artley George, two lively young pajama-clad girls, expends a tremendous amount of energy on material that seems hardly to deserve it. Wilbur Hall, who first came to fame locally as a trick musical specialist with Paul Whiteman's Orchestra, and Loretta Dennison score decisively in a musical offering, and Ben Dova, an acrobatic inebriate, does some amazing things perched on top of a dangerously oscillating lamp post.

Freddie Clark's "Memories of Roses" overture, a medley of melody gems; Mr. MacNamee and his Universal News and "A Day in the Life of a Chorus Girl," a "Gold Diggers of 1933," ballyhoo, further augment a feature that lends new interest to an old subject.

RKO-KEITH'S

"ANN CARVER'S PROFESSION." Columbia picturization of a story by Robert Riskin, featuring Fay Wray and Gene Raymond, with Claude Gillingwater, Frank Albertson, Claire Dodd and Arthur Pierson. Directed by Eddie Buzzell. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Mabel Nurryman.

Miss Gene Dennis, that clever and personable young psychic, begins her second week at RKO-Keith's, to the huge delight of a public which insists upon "knowing all." Whether or not Miss Dennis satisfactorily satisfies this demand and, if she does, how, is a matter for controversy, but at any rate, she has a most pleasing personality and goes about her performance in a refreshing and business-like manner.

As a screen presentation, Manager Hardie Meakin of the Fifteenth street house, has secured for Washington audiences the world premiere of 'Ann Carver's Profession," taken from the story "Rules for Wives" and one of the most entertaining films of the season.

The cast is headed by Fay Wray as Ann Carver, and Gene Raymond, as Bill Graham, her husband. We might add, that for the first time in many moons Miss Wray is neither pursued by prehistoric animals nor called upon to emit blood-curdling shrieks. She is, instead, a charming young college girl married to a football star. Through a series of lucky incidents, while waiting for her football star to turn into a great architect, Ann Carver becomes a spectacular and successful lawyer.

With quickness of wit and obtuseness of heart she seizes every luxury her new position offers to her, without realizing that her young husband is rapidly developing an inferiority complex that will ruin their domestic happiness. When the inevitable break occurs, the young architect exploits his football fame and his college reputation as a crooner in a night club.

The story has many delightful surprises and some splendid acting. Fay Wray is charmingly human as the efficient, level-headed young Portia, who, under the intoxicating influence of being in love, proves herself but a veritable woman. Gene Raymond practically steals the picture with a characterization that is perfect in every detail. Claude Gillingwater, veteran actor and grand old man of the screen, has the part of Judge Bingham and the gentleman who portrays the part of his son is Arthur Pierson and not Fredric March or David Manners, although he looks a bit like them both.

And while we are tossing orchids so lightly about, we want to mention Miss Claire Dodd, who gives one of the nicest inebriated performances we have ever seen. Frank Albertson is well suited to the orchestra leader part and there is an adequate and satisfying supporting cast and some exceptionally fine photography.

Added attractions include a Pathe News, a Tom and Jerry animated cartoon, a travelogue featuring life in China and a Masquer's presentation entitled "The Moonshiner's Daughter," very droll, as all Masquer's comedies are.

PALACE

"ADORABLE." Fox picturization of a story by George Marion, jr., and Jane Hom, starring Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat, with Herbert Mundin and Aubrey Smith. Directed by Wilhelm Dieterle. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Fox Films have found another mythical kingdom, which isn't between Budapest and Vienna, some silly, some amusing, some sentimental scenes for Janet Gaynor and her wistfulness, some overly handsome and overpowering royal sets but—they have also found Monsieur Henry Garat and that is practically the only reason that "Adorable" is, if not adorable, at least entertaining.

M'sieu Garat is distinctly to be seen, being France's second notable contribution to the masculine element of Hollywood's basic industry. Better looking than his predecessor, M'sieu Lower-lip Chevalier, though lacking his personality, H. G. (to go American on him immediately), is handsome in a nice way, a natural attractive, unassuming actor with only a twin accent to liken him to Chevalier.

However, if Garat is not a would-be second Chevalier, his vehicle—and lest we forget, Miss Gaynor's—is a would-be second Chevalier vehicle, and it doesn't quite get there. It is a curiously uneven picture, possessed of some rarely nice directorial touches and interestingly photographed shots, but handicapped by over-stressing of court pomp and ceremony. It can never quite make up its mind whether it's a fairy story or a satire, this tale of Princess Marie Christine, masquerading as a manicurist, and Lieut. Karl of the Palace guard as a delicatessen man at a servants' ball, waltzing, loving, parting and having the usual great deal of fun and trouble about identities.

It is probably Miss Gaynor's presence that keeps it on the fairy story side of the line, since her forte is sweetness rather than subtlety. And she is sweet and pretty and wistful and at times unusually spirited. However, she really shouldn't sing, or try to. With M'sieu Garat, it's a different matter, since his voice, though slight, is pleasant.

Herbert Mundin supplies the best of the supporting comedy. C. Aubrey Smith, Blanche Friderici, Hans von Twardowki and an unnamed but entrancing King complete the cast, which is bolstered to the bursting point of opulence with Palace guards, courtiers, trumpeteers, &c.

Charlie Chase appears in an amusing comedy, "Arabian Tights," with Muriel Evans again his extremely pretty leading lady. The advertised Chic Sale comedy was not in evidence at the show we caught, which was concluded by a newsreel.

Policeman Crack Injured As Dog Fouls Motorcycle

Raymond Crack, member of the Arlington County police force, narrowly escaped serious injury when thrown from his motorcycle on Vacation lane, Cherrydale, yesterday afternoon.

Crack was thrown under his machine when a dog raced between the wheels. He was rushed to the Georgetown University Hospital by Sheriff Howard B. Fields. After a careful examination, it was found that the bones were broken, but that he was suffering severe body bruises.

This is the third accident Crack has suffered. More than two years ago he narrowly escaped with his life when shot at by the occupant of a car he was chasing. On the other occasion an automobile drove directly in front of him in Clarendon, causing him to crash into it. He was badly cut about the body.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE B. RILEY.

THE following players under rules of Thursday's Federal Diary Tournament at Indian Spring are tied at net scores of par 71: M. C. Tatior, handicap, 19; H. H. Ritter, handicap, 23; C. W. Ingling, handicap, 18; Eddie Kemler, handicap, 20, and J. R. Enzeigh, handicap, 15.

Chairman J. Leland Acuff asks that these five players report at Indian Spring Monday at 7 a. m. and tee off from No. 1. The play will be medal with handicaps noted above for 18 holes. If at the end of 18 holes so played, two or more contestants have the same low net they will start match play with no handicap and play until one is winner of the tournament. He will receive the beautiful cup. Prizes also will be awarded to winners of second and third place in the play-off May 29.

The handsome golf plaque suitably engraved will be awarded to A. B. Strohm, I. C. C., whose gross score of 80 was second only to that of the 76 made by Tom Belshe. This award is made because it is believed all of the entrants should like to see the men who actually shot low scores given due credit.

Consolation award, a golf sweater, the gift of Meyer's Men's Shop, F street, will go to Albert E. Coldwell, 24—149—119. Notice of prize presentations will be published in this column.

APPARENTLY we made no mistake in selection of an official scorer, for there have been no complaints as to correctness of the published scores, as turned in by the scorer. Thanks to Miss Frances Skelly for a difficult task excellently performed.

Here is the kind of letter that makes our job a lot brighter and the joy of sponsoring these events far greater. It comes from the boys in Coast and Geodetic Survey who played in the tournament. It reads:

Permit us to thank you for the wonderful outing which you and your paper gave us yesterday at The Washington Post Golf Tournament for Federal workers. The Indian Spring management is also entitled to our thanks, for they had the course in perfect condition and everything went smoothly. It is a wonderful course and we deeply appreciate the effort you made to give us such a fine outing. Sincerely, H. C. Allen, J. H. Wulbern, Frank G. Erskine, G. T. Rude, F. S. Borden, E. W. THE Federal News, N. F. F. E. weekly, today will say in part:

"Representative Sirovich's resolution to create the post of liaison officer to adjust personnel differences is an indication of the New York legislator's continuing interest in the welfare of Federal employes. However, it is apparent upon careful analysis of the Sirovich resolution that its provisions are not broad enough and that even under the present critical conditions the proposed legislation would fall considerably short of accomplishing the ends which its author certainly must have had in view.

"A minimum requirement under all circumstances is a properly constituted civil service court of appeals, fully staffed, before which tribunal an employe may make a case in his own behalf • • •

"No provision is made to give the proposed liaison officer a staff of any kind to assist him in his monumental work • • •

"Regretfully, the Sirovich resolution does not promise in any respect to be an effective instrumentality • • •"

WARNING IS ISSUED ON INFECTED TICKS

Parents Advised to Guard Children Closely Against Spotted Fever.

Warning to parents in Somerset, Md., was issued last night by Dr. V. L. Ellicott, Montgomery County health officer, following discovery in Somerset of a case of spotted fever caused by ticks. The health officer quickly warned parents to watch children carefully and to remove ticks at once. He pointed out that a similar case last year would point to the presence of infected ticks.

The first victim reported this year is Hartley Day, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Day, 405 Cumberland avenue, Somerset. The boy's condition was reported satisfactory yesterday. The Eastern form of spotted fever is not as virulent as its Rocky Mountain progenitor and fatalities in the East are fewer than in the Rockies.

The ticks which carry the disease have been infected by biting an infected dog or rabbit, health officials say. They then place the virus in the blood stream of persons or animals which they bite later. Infection does not start until several hours after the tick has attached itself and started sucking blood.

Brush along the road, grassy strips on unused roads and brush along streams should be avoided, and the body should be inspected carefully several times a day.

Capital Man Fined In Marlborough

Clyde W. Blankenbaker, 150 Fifteenth street northeast, was fined $101 and costs yesterday in Marlboro, Md., police court on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving. He appealed the decision.

Blankenbaker, when arrested recently in the vicinity of Marlboro, was badly cut about the face. He told police that while returning from Chesapeake Beach he had been hailed by an unknown man who had followed him in a car. On stopping he was assaulted and badly beaten, he said.

Edward Neuman, of Oxon Hill, Md., charged with stealing a plow from the farm of John E. Kennedy, and James C. Proctor, Oxon Hill, charged with receiving stolen property, were both held for the grand jury.

Darnel C. Jackson and J. W. Brawner, charged with illegal possession and transportation of whiskey, were each fined $50 and costs. Gilbert Wayman and Charles H. Redmond, charged with setting up a gaming table at the Bowie race track, were each fined $15 and costs.

Dancers of Bekefi Institute Perform

The Bekefi Institute of Dance and Music held its last "public rehearsal" last evening at its studios, 2040 S street northwest, offering a short but delightful series of dances, with Mme. Maria Zalipsky, Ruth Walker and Gertrude Breeskin at the piano, and Marjorie Isaacs, soprano soloist.

The features of the evening's performance were repetitions of the ballet from the finale of Gluck's "Orpheus and Euridice," and one of the dances from the opening act of Kalman's "Die Czardas Furstin."

The Kalman dance was offered by Director Theodore Bekefi and Frances Rands. Among the others taking part were Norma Ruppert, Lucille Peck, Shirley Effenbach, Phyllis Schwartz, Elaine Pavloff, Shirley Schilling, Ludie Plavsky, Lila Zalipsky, Maurine Mulliner, Ronnie Cunningham, Mary Renkel and Maurice Deleporte, instructor in acrobatic dancing. Seaman Released On Threat Charge

Basing his decision on grounds that the threat was too indirect, Judge J. Chew Sheriff of the Marlboro Police Court yesterday dismissed the case of Erick Meuhle, German seaman charged with attempted extortion with threat to kidnap.

Mrs. Esther Christiansen, prominent University Park, Md., civic worker, who charged Meuhle with the kidnap threats against her two daughters, Edith, 13, and Hilda, 11, related her experience to the court.

The two became acquainted, she said, while seated together on a bus from New York. It was learned that Meuhle knew a friend of Mr. Christiansen who lived in Germany. With this introduction he obtained her address, she said.

EARLY RESULT SEEN ON BRIDGE APPROACH

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Removal of the last legal obstacle to completion by the State of the Lee boulevard approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge over the original route along the northern boundary of the military reservation and Arlington Cemetery will be accomplished soon in the opinion of county authorities.

An amendment to the industrial recovery and public works construction bill, which appropriates $400,000,000 for additional Federal-aid highway construction, was adopted by the House of Representatives late yesterday. It authorizes and directs the conveyance to the States of any Government property necessary for rights of way in connection with any Federal-aid highway project to be constructed under the provisions of the bill.

Failure to complete the Lee boulevard has been attributed by Chairman H. G. Shirley, State Highway Commission, to the inability to obtain from the War Department an unconditional right of way across the northwest corner of the Fort Myer Military Reservation. The action of the House yesterday, should it finally become law, will make it possible to obtain the right of way with the approval of the President and the Attorney General.

Two young boys, one a collateral descendant of George Washington and the other the grandson of the late William F. Carne, a local historian who did more than any other person to revive the memory of this patriot, and who also was instrumental in establishing the Catholic Church in Alexandria.

The tablet will be placed on the north wall of Burke & Herbert's Bank, southeast corner of King and Fairfax streets, this modern bank building being erected on the lot that formerly held the house of Col. Fitzgerald, when he was Mayor of Alexandria, and also collector of the port.

A special train will bring to this city the members of the donor chapter and their friends from Newark and Jersey City, and special cars will take them on a tour of Washington and to Mount Vernon prior to the services. Representative Mary T. Norton will make an address and place a wreath on the Washington tomb.

The Rev. John J. Murphy, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church of Newark, will respond to the welcome extended the visitors by the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin, dean of the northern section of Virginia.

John B. Gordon, president of the Washington Society of Alexandria, will speak for that organization, and the principal address will be by Maj. Eugene F. Kinkead, of South Orange, N. J., former United States Representative from Hudson County, and a World War veteran and a member of the Col. John Fitzgerald Chapter. Capt. J. B. Murphy will speak on behalf of the Fitzgerald Council, Knights of Columbus, of Alexandria. Francis H. Fannon will be master of ceremonies and the guard of honor will be from Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion.

Alexandria Shriners to Leave.

A caravan of Alexandria Shriners, headed by Joseph H. Kretchmer, president of the local club, will leave the George Mason Hotel at 3:30 p. m. today for Richmond to attend the ceremonial at Acca Temple in the Mosque.

Casa Grande, Ariz., May 26 (A.P.).—Mayor James M. Sawtelle has capitulated to his public. The mayor, who refused to be a candidate for reelection but who was reelected anyway, has issued the following statement:

"I will qualify and I will serve the city to the best of my ability. I can not let my friends think that I do not appreciate their confidence and good will."

Oyster Springs Trap On Mice Seeking Meal

Tacoma, Wash., May 26 (A.P.).—An oyster sprung the trap on two mice looking for a meal. Chris Rose, superintendent of an oyster company plant here, found the dead mice dangling from the clamped "lips" of a large Pacific oyster.

Buddy, Canine Film Star, Visits Children's Hospital

BUDDY.

Buddy, the Lone Eagle, famous dog movie star who is successor to Rin-Tin-Tin, took time off from his duties at Woodward & Lothrop department store yesterday afternoon to entertain shut-ins at Children's Hospital.

Buddy was greeted with shouts of glee and hand claps as he was introduced by his owner, John Rich. In appreciation of his enthusiastic welcome, Buddy performed many of his tricks and repeated some of the movie scenes that have brought him fame throughout the world.

While in Washington his headquarters are on the fourth floor of Woodward & Lothrop's, where he is telling his Washington friends the advantages of being raised on "Man-Kind" dog and cat food.

To the thousands of children and grown-ups who have called on him, Buddy proudly displays the Carnegie and Red Cross medals he has won for life saving on several occasions, and some of the 800 ribbons he has won in competition throughout the country. Today will be the last day of his visit in Washington. Then he must resume his tour of the Eastern States.

But Buddy's tour is quite different from the average tour of other dogs. He is permitted to ride in pullman cars and buses, and has never ridden in a baggage car. Like all great movie stars, he is taking a rest from his strenuous duties in Hollywood, his home, but must return by July 1 to begin another picture. He is well acquainted with most of the moving picture stars, having been featured in many of their pictures.

Buddy is 6 years old—a police dog—and was born in Cleveland, Ohio. He entered pictures four years ago and quickly rose to stardom. He is insured for $250,000, and is constantly in the company of an armed guard while on tour.

DEVALORIZING THE DOLLAR.

The final step in abolishing the relative value of the American dollar as measured by gold is proposed in the joint resolution offered yesterday in both houses of Congress at the instance of the administration. If this resolution should become law and should not be declared unconstitutional, the value of the American dollar would be subject to the fluctuating opinion of the country and the world. It would not be measurable by the yardstick of gold. Apparently the resolution makes useless any order by the President touching the gold content of the dollar; for there is to be no gold content whatever.

The resolution proposes to nullify the promise of the United States to redeem its bonds and other obligations in gold. It also proposes to nullify any private obligation to repay a debt in gold or its equivalent of value. Public and private obligations can be paid off in currency, whatever the value of the dollar may be.

The Federal Reserve now holds more gold than at any other time in history. But this gold is now apparently worthless, in a domestic sense, either as a reserve to buttress or standardize the value of money or as material with which to coin dollars. But the gold hoard of the Government can be employed in any international battle of currencies, and can be used again to revalorize the dollar if the value of money should begin to disappear.

The resolution states that contracts payable in gold obstruct the power of Congress to regulate the value of money; but it is proposed that Congress shall quit regulating the value of money. By nullifying public and private obligations payable in gold or its equivalent, the regulation of money value disappears. There is talk of "managed currency," but when the measure or standard of value is destroyed, it is not clear how the Treasury can maintain its value, although it may regulate the volume.

Debtors, under the proposed resolution, would be enabled to pay off their debts in money which may be worth much less than the money they borrowed. Perhaps it is this feature which is hailed by some legislators as a "declaration of economic independence." Depositors in closed banks, if they receive dividends at all, may receive money that is worth less than the sums they deposited.

Foreign governments owing debts to the United States doubtless will attempt to hammer down the value of the American dollar, so that if this country compels them to pay they can pay in depreciated currency.

Beneficiaries of insurance policies face the risk of receiving much less value than was contracted for when the policies were issued.

The experiment contemplated in the pending resolution is that the United States shall float money which has no standard of value, and shall not pay out gold or its equivalent, notwithstanding its promise to do so. It seems to be confidently expected that the American people will regard the dollar as worth just as much as if it were convertible into gold. They have withstood the shock of the new law which authorizes the issuance of billions of paper money, and the dollar remains the dollar. Whether the people will continue to regard the dollar as worth 25.22 grains of gold, after the nullification of public and private obligations to pay debts in gold or its equivalent, is the crucial question whose answer will determine the welfare of the country. It is believed by the administration that business recovery and reduction of unemployment will be stimulated to such an extent that public faith in the value of the nation's currency will not waver.

PARLEY OBJECTIVES.

The recent radio address of Prof. Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, is in striking contrast to the optimistic forecasts of Secretary Hull as to the outcome of the economic conference in London next month. Prof. Moley frankly voices caution against exaggerated hopes, saying: "It should not be expected that the conference itself is going to be able to lay out a plan for a series of international measures which will bring about the alleviation of economic difficulties all over the world."

Owing to the well-known low tariff views of Secretary Hull, who will head the American delegation to London, probably too much emphasis has popularly been placed upon the supposition that the reduction of international trade barriers would be the main point of attack. As the economic adviser and confidant of the President, Prof. Moley undoubtedly speaks with full understanding of the Administration attitude when he recognizes it to be "overwhelmingly clear that a good part of the ills of each country is domestic," and that "the action of an international conference which attempted to bring about cures for these difficulties solely by concerted international measures would necessarily end in failure."

International conferences fail, according to Prof. Moley, because the public is led to expect too much from international cooperation, and because the participating delegates attempt more than can reasonably be expected. He warns that a clear understanding of these possibilities of danger must be had in connection with the coming London parley, adding that "above all, the people of the United States must recognize that world trade is, after all, only a small percentage of the entire trade of the United States; this means that our domestic policy is of paramount importance. We must recognize, all of us, that we build the basis of our prosperity here."

The London conference will "best serve the hopes and expectations of the world if it does not attempt the unattainable," is the opinion of Prof. Moley. Among the problems for which solution will be found he places monetary policies first, including the establishment of better relations between central banks and relief from exchange restrictions. Settlement of economic questions the speaker found "much more difficult of solution," since during "the past ten years each nation has been moving in the direction of setting up a self-contained economic life within its own borders; thus it will be difficult to make an extensive attack upon trade barriers, however much this may be desired."

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

The gates of Chicago's great exposition will be thrown open officially today to welcome the first of the 50,000,000 guests who are expected to visit the gorgeous panorama that has been erected on the shores of Lake Michigan. Forty years ago the world journeyed to Chicago to see the marvels displayed at the World's Fair. The present ambitious project is called the Century of Progress. It affords a living picture of advancement in almost every line of human endeavor—industry, transportation and communication, science and the arts.

The indomitable spirit of Chicago, which in the midst of depression hardships and peculiar local troubles has carried the exposition to completion for opening on scheduled time, is proof of civic pride which gives assurance that the difficulties that beset the Nation's second city will be overcome. The unique qualities of the present fair are strikingly illustrated in the modernistic character of the buildings, which are unusual in architecture, coloring and arrangement.

Few great exhibits of this kind have been completed and paid for as this one has been without a floating debt. Over $26,000,000 has been spent in its construction, and exhibits valued at more than $6,000,000 are in place for this opening day. The spacious grounds extend for three and a half miles along the lake front from the Loop almost to the site of the former World's Fair. If the exhibits were to be placed end to end they would line a street more than eighty miles long.

The grounds today hold eighty-five buildings upon which thousands of workmen have been employed in order to have them ready for the opening ceremonies.

EXPEDIENCY WINS.

A few months ago the Glass banking bill encountered a prolonged filibuster in the Senate and failed of enactment because of hostility in the House. Now it has performed the remarkable feat of slipping through both the House and the Senate with virtually no opposition. To any one unfamiliar with the vagaries of politics the change of sentiment in Congress with regard to this measure would be utterly incomprehensible.

Not many changes have been made in the banking bill since it raised a storm of antagonism in the Senate. Senator Glass and his colleagues merely put a sugar-coating on it. The camouflage was so delightful to the Senate that it accepted the measure without a dissenting vote. Similar procedure had been previously followed in the House and the vote in favor of the measure was overwhelming.

The sugar-coating, of course, is the guarantee of bank deposits. Every congressman wants to go home and tell his constituents that he has helped to make deposits absolutely safe in the future. At the same time he wishes to tell the presidents of every country bank and bucket shop that he has saved their institutions from annihilation. It makes no difference to these members of Congress that these two "achievements" are utterly incongruous. They rely upon Uncle Sam to make up the losses to be incurred by the insurance of deposits while bucket shops are preserved as permanent institutions.

The banking bill was further weakened by acceptance of an amendment by Senator Vandenberg, providing for a temporary guarantee of deposits up to $2,500. A fund for this purpose would be raised by assessing all the banks one-half of 1 per cent of all their deposits eligible for the benefits, and by a Federal contribution of $10,000,000. But if the fund should become unable to pay charges against it, additional funds could be drawn from the Treasury. In other words, this is a reversion to the old guarantee scheme that has repeatedly failed when tried by the States.

State banks would be allowed to participate in this fund on easy terms. It is considered entirely an emergency measure to be replaced on July 1, 1934, by the deposit insurance plan under which a $2,000,000,000 corporation would be created. Apparently the insurance plan was not liberal enough to meet with approval of the Senate for immediate application.

Aside from this political expedient there is a good deal of sound banking legislation worked out by Senator Glass and a few other senators who are authorities on the subject. But fundamental defects remain uncorrected because congressmen fail to support measures leading to a uniform banking system.

Secretary Woodin is known to oppose this measure, and President Roosevelt has refused to include it in his program of relief legislation.

DOUBTFUL REVENUE.

Passage of the national recovery bill by the House has not cleared away the uncertainty surrounding the public works provisions of that measure. The House defeated the sales tax by a substantial majority, and accepted higher income taxes and a greater levy on gasoline to finance the proposed bond issue for public works and relief funds. In view of the revelations brought out by the Morgan inquiry, this prospect is certainly not encouraging.

The House voted to reduce to one year the period during which capital losses can be deducted from income in making tax returns. But this provision can not be expected to increase the revenue from income taxes by any substantial amount. Wall Street will still be able to sell stock within the taxable year to establish losses which can be deducted. This gesture of resentment against the fact that J. P. Morgan and his partners have escaped taxes for the last two years will not make the proposed higher levies upon incomes a reliable source of revenue for servicing public works bonds.

In view of President Roosevelt's latest measure, invalidating the gold clause in all contracts, it is definitely known that the proposed public works bonds will not be payable in gold. Successful flotation of these bonds will depend, therefore, upon public faith in the provisions made for their redemption. It is of the utmost importance that the taxes levied for this purpose be certain and adequate. But the action of the House leaves that question in doubt.

How can the United States object to an increase of the Japanese army and navy, seeing how much new territory they must defend against aggression?

Promises to pay bonds in gold are against public policy, says the latest joint resolution. Is Uncle Sam trying to dodge his income tax?

Wet States are repealing the eighteenth amendment with great gusto, but dry States are satisfied with beer.

Senator Glass doesn't make it quite clear whether he is fed up on revelations or ravenous for more.

THE LESSON OF 1837

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

President Van Buren had scarcely been inaugurated when in 1837 a disastrous business panic, brought on by a wild tumult of speculation and Andrew Jackson's war on high finance, seized the country. In the midst of the depression Daniel Webster went to Detroit and delivered an address. One passage from it is worth quotation because of its application to conditions of today. Webster said:

"In times like these we find ourselves in the midst of a serious financial and industrial crisis. It just seems inconceivable that conditions can ever right themselves enough to have prosperous times in the country again. Trade and industry throughout the land are disorganized. Banks by the hundreds have failed. Securities have fallen to one-half or even one-quarter of their former value.

"The problem of unemployment has become general and in all large cities special committees have been organized to provide food and clothing for the poor and the unemployed. In addition to this effort, some cities have caused relief work to be instigated by public bodies. Widespread want and distress have led to labor strikes.

"The lessening demand for wheat exported to Europe has caused American wheat to sell in the West for less than 50 cents a bushel. Extensive competition, lowering prices and unwise speculation have brought about a crisis abounding in rumor and reports, most of which have no foundation and do great damage. The renewal of confidence and the allaying of violent fear in the minds of the people which will allow for active buying rather than money hoarding must precede business recovery."

In spite of Mr. Webster's foreboding that it seemed inconceivable that the Nation would ever see prosperous conditions again, the country shook off the depression and resumed its march toward a greater prosperity than it had ever known.

There is a lesson in 1837 for 1933.

How to Hatch It?

POST HASTE.

Six States have ratified repeal, 23 more vote this year. If they all go wet that's 7 short of 36. Mr. Farley will have to call some special sessions.

France demands a new reservation for every one of those Indian gifts without security.

Dr. Sprague, the Government's new financial adviser, says the dollar can't be stabilized until economic conditions are stabilized. The doctor hasn't been here long and hasn't learned that nowadays we do things anyhow.

Of course, there are some blind alleys. We can't talk debts until installments are paid; economic adjustments wait on debts, disarmament defers to politics and, naturally, in each case, vice versa.

A New Mexico judge has decided that the new beer is no more intoxicating under State law than under Federal enactment.

The Morgan favored list is becoming so large and representative that the stigma will soon consist of not rating appearance among the chosen.

Some curiosity is expressed as to why Japan still goes through the motions of asking permission to expand her army and navy.

The Federal Reserve will try a 25-million sample of credit inflation to show the Treasury how it fits a molar cavity.

While Ambassador Davis is playing a lone hand in Europe why bring up that loan?

Mr. Pecora has a peculiar penchant for prying into peccadillos. Even Morgan depositors are beginning to tremble.

The President's natural generosity now demands that Congress share with him the glory and-or responsibility of going off gold.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ENCOURAGEMENT.

His wife has taken him by the hand
And their children gay in a box of sand
And the tulips red 'neath the window wide.
She has shown him the green grass and the trees,
The small church steeple over the way,
And bade him look on such joys as these
And hearten himself for the troubled day.

She has strengthened him with her lovely arm
And kissed his furrowed and worried cheek.
She talked to him of the great world's charm,
And his eyes grow bright as he hears her speak.
"There is joy to come; there is pride to know.
We shall laugh once more before very long.
And the man remembers he must be strong.

"Together the burden of life we'll share;
Together the peace of the world we'll find!
Hark to the birds who are singing there!
To the glory of life do not now grow blind!"
He kisses her lips and he strokes her hair,
Looks at his children at play, and then,
With courage renewed and with shoulders square,

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: I notice that you continue to fight your way through a book despite the fact that it bores you. Having begun it, you refuse to surrender until the bitter end. And I suppose you feel, as many others do, that such self-torture is a virtue.

Well, it isn't. Books are to be read for pleasure or profit. And a book that you read unwillingly affords you no profit, for your mind refuses to absorb and hold anything so distasteful.

All of your teachers and most of the world's high-brows will disagree, but I assure you that people who have a taste for reading usually read too much.

That wouldn't be true, of course, if all books were worth while; but of the thousands published each year, you will seldom find a dozen worth reading.

The explanation, in part, is shallow thinking and shoddy writing. You are told that this or that genius turned out his book in three months, and that is supposed to indicate brilliance.

Well, the book will be forgotten in three months, too. Grey rewrote his "Elegy" fifty-odd times before he got it to suit him, and then it made him immortal. Nothing else of his is remembered. Probably nothing else was so painstakingly done. There is no excellence without great labor, and books produced like machine-made jewels have about the same value.

There is another explanation, however. Calvin Coolidge said he was going to quit writing daily newspaper articles because he had already covered all subjects. Well, writers of books covered all subjects years ago. New books merely rehash the same old stuff. In twenty years of rather steady reading, I have failed to find more than half a dozen new ideas.

At your age you have much ground to cover. There are many books you should read. But read the ones that make you think—and don't swallow them whole. Make the author prove his case.

If a book tells you something you already know, it is a waste of time to read it. If it tells you something new, it may be mistaken. Ponder over it. If you believe everything you read, the last book you chance to pick up will determine your beliefs.

Reading much isn't a virtue. It is like pouring water in a sieve. Read only the books that are worth remembering, and don't waste time on books so unenjoyable that you can't remember them.

But, above all, don't be a parrot. Reading can't take the place of thinking. If you can't think for yourself, no amount of reading can make you any smarter than a phonograph record. Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Loans Are Being Repaid.

Kansas City Times.

A partial answer to doubts expressed about the repayment of loans to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is afforded in the statement by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation. First, the chairman reports that banks closed by the sweeping order of early March now are reopening at the rate of more than 125 a week, which is being accelerated. That is evidence of a vastly improved banking situation, and one evidence of betterment in scores of directions, a condition reflected in decreasing demand for corporation loans of various kinds. But even more to the point is the fact that, of the more than $1,500,000,000 in loans made to the banks and others, nearly one-third, or a total of $500,000,000, has already been repaid.

Banking Reform Next.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Glass banking bill has been unanimously approved by the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency and placed on the calendar in the upper house. By opening the doors of the Federal Reserve System to all banks, it paves the way to a unified system of banking, with Government supervision and control, which should do much to prevent the conditions which have resulted in the closing of 18,000 banks in the United States since 1921.

One of the chief features of this bill is the provision to guarantee all deposits up to $10,000, with a 50 per cent guarantee on all deposits in excess of $10,000. This would be a cooperative effort of the banks and the United States Government. This feature doubtless will have tremendous support behind it, although certain of the more powerful among the banking fraternity have opposed it.

Pulling for Tugwell.

Newark Evening News.

If anybody can pull the farmer out of a hole, that should be Mr. Tugwell, the new Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Who Shall Set the Limit?

New York Sun.

Even a few backyard gardeners may be confused into hoping that under the new farm relief act the Government will pay them to plant fewer rows of lettuce this year, whether or not they have mortgaged the plot.

Why Not?

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Neither did J. P. Morgan.

Both are enjoying (?) publicity of this fact.

Why not restore the publicity clause in the tax law and put everybody on the same footing with these two poor men?

Private Banking.

Topeka Capital.

If the present head of Morgan is not as great a national or international figure as his famous father, he is a richer man several times over. The elder Morgan prized power far above wealth. But both father and son emphatically defend private banking, the present head of the banking house describing it as "a national asset and not a national danger."

This is the most important question the Senate committee has in mind in its inquiry, and before its investigation is over the public will know more of the functioning of private banking than it has ever known in the past.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LICENSING THE BUSINESS MAN

Under the Roosevelt recovery bill the Government will issue licenses to business, which may at any time be revoked for cause. Any business man may be told to "pull over to the curb" and asked to show his license during the next two years.

• • • •

Business men will presumably be required to pass an examination, in a manner of speaking, and show that they are qualified to operate a business safely. A special demonstration of ability over rough roads and in getting out of ditches, morasses and sloughs of despond will be required.

• • • •

POSSIBLE APPLICATION BLANK

1. Have you ever operated a business before?
2. If so, through how many receiverships?
3. Has your business license ever been revoked for any of the following causes:
   (a) Driving through caution signs.
   (b) Operating recklessly.
   (c) Operating a business with defective brakes or steering gear.
   (d) Overloading.
   (e) Driving with one arm around the stock market.
   (f) Ignoring stop lights.
4. What model business do you own?
5. What make?
6. Is the power gas, electric, steam or political?
7. How far has your business been driven?
8. Do you intend operating the said industry for business or pleasure purposes?

• • • •

GENERAL INTELLIGENCE TEST

1. You are operating a business satisfactorily and making a reasonable profit. Somebody comes along and suggests that you double your plant and issue new stock. Which of the following things would you do: Agree at once? Yell for a cop? Punch him in the nose?
2. You are running a business sanely and conservatively and growing normally, with a splendid return on the investment. The directors suggest that you cut a melon and take over six smaller companies, none of which is doing much business. What should you do? Scream? Accept the plan? Jump through a window?
3. You have built up a nice business after years of hard work. You own it outright. A friend urges you to borrow on it and buy the oil stocks. What is the proper course for you to follow? To grab the idea at once? Invite him to lunch? Throw him out? Whistle through your teeth?

• • • •

It looks like a dizzy two years. And don't forget you can have your license revoked for running over a competitor and not stopping to see how badly he is hurt.

WITH PROPER CREDIT WHERE DUE.

After reading Mr. Morgan's frank testimony Elmer Twitchell has a new alibi the next time his wife rebukes him for a loss in the stock market. "Lissen, honey," he will protest, "even a Morgan makes mistakes."

Norman Davis tells Geneva the United States will not run out on any enforcement of the non-aggression pact in Europe. But it may walk a little fast.

To the salaried man, on getting the latest tax news, the new deal would seem to be all clubs and no hearts.

The R. F. C. has $1,468 left of its $300,000,000 relief fund. It feels as embarrassed as anybody else about it, no doubt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Proposes a Retirement Plan Which Would Help Balance the Budget and Make Room for Younger Men.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to suggest a provision which, if enacted by Congress, would contribute toward balancing the budget, and would make it unnecessary to dismiss many employes, as follows:

Any employe of the Government between 62 and 70 years of age with a Civil Service status who has made the usual contributions to the retirement fund, and who is an honorably discharged veteran of any war in which the United States has been engaged, and who has served more than 10 years but less than 30 years, may upon his own application, be retired by the President, and upon such retirement, shall receive the maximum retired pay of $1,200 now authorized and provided by law.

There are many men in the service coming within the terms of this provision who would gladly take advantage of it, thus saving the Government the difference between their present salaries and the retired pay, and making room for younger men with families who can ill afford to be separated from the service.

Foreign Statesmen Trying to Find Way to Make War Cost Less.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If I thought that the European nations were sincere in their declarations for peace and disarmament I would favor the United States cooperating in every way to that end. But if the foreign diplomats and statesmen could be made to tell the truth they would say that they are not really trying to abolish war, but are endeavoring to find a way to make war cost less.

CHURCH TO OBSERVE 65TH ANNIVERSARY

Dr. Taylor Tomorrow Speaks on History of Central Presbyterian.

Tomorrow the Central Presbyterian Church will observe the sixty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the church in the Columbia Law Building on Fifth street northwest on May 31, 1868, by the Rev. Dr. A. W. Pitzer. In June, 1872, a chapel was begun at Third and I streets northwest, and completed in January, 1873. Here services were held for several years, until a church was built at that same location in 1885. For 30 years this was the only church in the District of Columbia connected with the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly.

Dr. Pitzer continued as pastor until 1906, when he resigned. In September, 1906, the Rev. James H. Taylor was called as pastor and began the work in November, 1906.

Owing to the fact that many of the congregation were moving into the newer sections of the city, property was secured at Thirteenth and Monroe streets northwest. A portable chapel was erected. Later this property was disposed of and the site at the southeast corner of Fifteenth and Irving streets was secured. The chapel was moved to this location.

President Woodrow Wilson attended the Central Presbyterian Church the first Sunday of his administration. In April, 1913, President Wilson wrote that he and his family would attend the Central Presbyterian Church regularly. Upon receipt of this letter Dr. Taylor conferred with President Wilson, telling him that the church had purchased property at Fifteenth and Sixteenth and Irving streets northwest and planned to move to that location. President Wilson assured him of his interest and support in this plan. In October, 1913, work was begun on the new church building. On December 19, 1913, President Wilson laid the corner stone and made an address on that occasion. The building was completed in May, 1914. The pew occupied by President Wilson is marked with a silver plate.

On January 25, 1925, a tablet commemorating the organization of the church and the membership of President Wilson in the congregation of the church was unveiled by President Calvin Coolidge.

A few years ago the property on Irving street adjacent to the church was acquired, and in August, 1930, work was begun on the new Sunday school building. On Thanksgiving Day, 1930, the corner stone of this Sunday School building was laid by President Herbert Hoover. Thus three Presidents in recent times have had some direct connection with the life of this church. This building was completed in June, 1931.

Tomorrow morning Dr. James H. Taylor will give an account of the church in its 65 years of history. At night there will be a meeting at which members of the congregation will give their reminiscences.

If the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him." (I Kings, xviii:21.) The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The destruction of the claims of mortal mind through Science, by which man can escape from sin and mortality, blesses the whole human family.

"As in the beginning, however, this liberation does not scientifically show itself in a knowledge of both good and evil, for the latter is unreal. On the other hand, Mind-science is wholly separate from any halfway impertinent knowledge, because Mind-science is of God and demonstrates the divine Principle, working out the purpose of good only." (Page 103.)

"A Mountain Top Experience" Theme of Dr. Hutchinson.

"A Mountain Top Experience" and "What of the Harvest?" are the texts for morning and evening services at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South. The Sunday evening organ recital will be given at 7:30 by Mrs. Florence Clayton Dunham, organist and director of music at the First Baptist Church, Fairmont, W. Va. Miss Mabrey Evans will speak at the meeting of the Young Adult Department this evening at 7 o'clock in the church school auditorium. Tomorrow there will be a memorial remembrance of those of the church membership who have passed away during the last year.

At the service June 11 the pastor will observe the wedding anniversary of all the couples whom he has married since he began his pastorate at this church. All other couples who were married under the auspices of Mount Vernon Place Church are also expected to attend. Reserved seats will be provided.

Visitors Will Address Fifth Baptist Church.

Two distinguished guest preachers will occupy the pulpit at the Fifth Baptist Church tomorrow, the services being conducted by the pastor, Dr. John E. Briggs. At 11 o'clock Dr. Austen K. de Blois, president of the Eastern Theological Seminary of Philadelphia, will preach, and at the evening service the preacher will be Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, of New York. Dr. Laws was born in Loudoun County, Va., and has held pastorates in Baltimore and New York. He is now the editor of the National Baptist paper, the Watchman Examiner.

The Sunday school will meet at 9:30 a. m., and the guest teachers will be Dr. A. E. Harris, of Philadelphia, who will teach the Baraca Bible Class for men, and Dr. Ralph Mayberry, of Williamsport, and the Rev. Mr. Wood, of Philadelphia.

In the afternoon at 5 o'clock, the Junior Alliance will hold its annual tea for parents and friends, with the installation of new officers.

On Friday morning, June 2, the Women's Alliance will hold its final meeting of the season. Mrs. John W. Adams and Mrs. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, who returns tomorrow from the meetings of the national organization in Boston, will speak. Pierce Hall Players have arranged for a picnic at the home of Mrs. L. A. MacMahon, in Cherrydale, for Saturday afternoon and evening, June 3.

Massing of Colors At Cathedral Tomorrow.

The sixth annual massing of the colors, under the auspices of the Military Order of the World War, will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the open-air amphitheater at the Washington Cathedral. Greetings will be given by Gen. John J. Pershing, and the memorial address will be made by the Bishop of Washington.

At 3:30 p. m. a concert will be given by the Marine Band and at 3:45 p. m. the parade of colors will start.

The public is invited to attend this patriotic memorial service, which each year attracts a large number of participants and an audience of many thousands.

This year several hundred patriotic and veteran organizations will participate. Not only is the massing of the colors a memorable spectacle, but the procession, also, with its many colored banners and the American colors being carried down the slope of Mount St. Alban, almost in the shadow of the magnificent Gothic cathedral, is an impressive and beautiful sight, to be compared with a scene of medieval pageantry.

In the event of rain the service will be held in the great choir of the cathedral.

Dr. Copenhaver to Preach Million-Dollar Sermon.

Dr. John C. Copenhaver, pastor of Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South, Thirteenth street and North Carolina avenue northeast, will preach tomorrow morning for the 11 o'clock service and take as his sermon subject "He That Overcometh." For his evening subject at 8 o'clock he will take "If I Had a Million Dollars."

Miss Anne G. Smith, Mr. James Shores and Miss Mattie Conway have been elected to represent the Wesley Fellowship as organization delegates to the meeting of the annual Baltimore Conference Adult Assembly, which will be held in the buildings of the Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, Va., June 16 to 18, inclusive. lay place and proceed by motor to the picnic grounds.

The League for the Larger Life will open its summer place at Calvert Beach, on the beautiful Chesapeake Bay, today. Many members are availing themselves of a four-day outing. Automobiles will leave from headquarters, 916 Sixteenth street, at 3 o'clock, and Monday, at 8:30 o'clock, returning the evening of May 30. A special program has been prepared for Memorial Day.

This program includes the crowning of Dr. Alice Caporn as queen of Nature. Dr. Caporn, a noted endocrinologist and biologist-food scientist of Australia, who has many devoted students in Washington and other cities, will make her headquarters at Larger Life Lodge, Calvert Beach, this summer. She will conduct classes in psychology, nutritional chemistry and biological exercises, and the league is looking forward to a most delightful summer season.

Dr. O'Grady Host To Charity Board.

The Rev. Dr. John O'Grady was host yesterday to the executive board of the Ladies of Charity at luncheon in the Pan-American room of the Mayflower. Mrs. H. H. Flather, chairman of the board, and the following members were guests: Mrs. Joseph Bayer, Mrs. Clemens Polesa, Miss Mary Kolb, Mrs. J. H. Fritz, Mrs. George Whitecotton, Mrs. John Sheridan, Miss Anna Beuchert, Mrs. E. M. Prowinsky, Mrs. Jessie Prosise, Mrs. A. W. Nock and Mrs. Frank Scheerer.

These women represent a membership of 250 ladies in 12 different parish organizations. The Rev. Dr. Lawrence J. Shehan, assistant director of Catholic charities of Washington, and the Rev. Francis Mellon, of the staff of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, were also present and made brief addresses. The guests of honor on the occasion were Mrs. George O'Connor, Mrs. James Hayden, Mrs. James Manley and Mrs. Arthur Mullen.

Preparations are in progress for the annual picnic of the American Association of University Women today at the Madeira School, Greenway, Fairfax County, Va. Interesting walks, a box supper and general sociability are to be the order of the day. Arrangements are in charge of Miss Margaret Maise. Cars will leave the clubhouse between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock. Transportation will be provided for those who wish it. Members and their guests are cordially invited to enjoy this festivity together.

Culbertson on Bridge

INSURING SAFETY.

PROBABLY more hands are lost at the Contract table—hands that should be made—because the Declarer, for one reason or another, reaches the conclusion that his contract is safe no matter what line of play is adopted than for any other reason. The result often is that he discovers unusual distribution of a suit too late to do anything about it.

An interesting example of the proposition that it pays to take nothing for granted in Bridge occurred in a recent international team-of-four match in Berlin, Germany:

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Herr Cohn.

The final contract was six spades, with Herr Cohn, the South player, as Declarer.

The opening lead was the club King. South, of course, won with the Ace and now faced the problem of play. He drew trumps, then stripped his own hand of clubs and both his own and the Dummy's of diamonds, completing the elimination with the lead in the Dummy. At this point he led a small heart, upon which East played the 3 and South the 6. Surprisingly, this held the trick, but it was a play that was bound to win against almost all possible heart distributions unless four to the Queen-Knave-9 were in the West hand, in which case there was but one play that could save the contract. Through the elimination play and the correct play of the heart suit, after the elimination had been completed, South lost only 1 heart trick and made his contract.

The reader will note that even if West's singleton heart had been higher than the 6, it would not have made any difference, as in that case he would have had only clubs or diamonds to lead and the Declarer could thus have ruffed in one hand and discarded a losing heart in the other. Obviously, if West had two hearts, the play could not fail, as in that event East could have only three. In fact, if this were the distribution, the manner in which the heart suit was played would have been immaterial, but Herr Cohn rightly protected himself against unfavorable distribution. Had he played the hand in the usual manner, his contract would have been defeated.

Shaming Bad Habits.

IT is usual to attempt to shame children out of such habits as thumb sucking and nail biting.

Those who have busied themselves with the behavior difficulties of children have reason to think that this is a very dangerous way of dealing with such troubles even when apparently it is successful.

It is felt that the humiliation the child suffers is infinitely more harmful to his character development than is the habit itself.

Although the habit may disappear, serious nervous disorders and all sorts of disciplinary behavior difficulties develop, traceable, not to the habit, but to the effects of the shame the child was made to endure.

The severity with which the parents usually proceed against such "bad habits" is entirely unreasonable, perhaps based on prejudices and fears which they have failed to examine in the light of present knowledge of mental hygiene.

Specialists in this field agree that it is best to proceed against these habits, if at all, in an unemotional and, if possible, indirect way.

Food and Drugs Change To Await Next Congress

Revision of the food and drug act, which will be recommended by the Department of Agriculture, is not to be classed as emergency legislation and will not be important enough to keep Congress in session, it was made clear yesterday at the White House.

The Department of Agriculture is now making a study of the law, with a view to recommending changes. If it is desired to introduce these changes at the special session, there will be no objection. It may be well to have them under consideration during the summer, it was pointed out. Any changes in the bill, however, are for consideration and immediate passage is not necessary.

Lingers Long Among Flowers for Garden Planting; Reports on Foods for Picnics.

Clove pinks or lemon lilies . . . stately delphinium, tall marigolds or purple petunias . . . which, or how many shall the flower lover buy when the flowers are standing in brilliant masses all around him? And when they are selling right now at such low prices that even a modest shopper doesn't need to use much restraint. Five cents will buy some of the flowers and a quarter will often buy a half dozen. The winsome flax flower with its soft blue for the garden sells four plants for 25 cents. Moonvines which cover shabby spots in double quick time and offer fragrant white blooms at night, give all their greenery and beauty for 5 cents a plant . . . six plants for a quarter!

Mountain pinks or straw flowers, a favorite with many, are 10 cents each, three for 25 cents; nasturtiums make bright spots for 25 cents a dozen, . . . as do their sprightly companions, the zinnias, also 25 cents a dozen.

Meanderings readers may guess that the Meanderer found the amazing flower values in the stand where the flower girl with winning manners and blond curly hair seems to belong among the colors and sweet odors. "We have always loved growing flowers and selling them to those who like to grow flowers," this girl so familiar to Washington gardeners told the Meanderer. "We come very early in the morning and are never home until 7 o'clock." ("We" means her father, mother, brother and herself.) If flowers were tagged with labels showing their source, this family would be credited with supplying a large part of the bright summer gardens in the Capital.

Famous for his tongue is a tall, quiet-mannered, white-haired merchant in one of the downtown markets—not meaning his method of using his own tongue, but his way of presenting beef tongue to the public. Every day he oversees in a closely prescribed manner the cooking of 60 beef tongues, and for the week-end and the coming holiday he is making ready nearly 250 tongues for the cold lunches so suitable for warm weather menus.

Another cold meat excellent for picnics, for beer suppers or for general family use is old-fashioned thuringer, a spiced sandwich or cold platter meat suggestion, from the meat dealer who supplies such excellent cold tongue. In small quantities, thuringer costs 30 cents a pound, or may be bought for 22 cents in a large piece, bologna shaped. Whole pieces of thuringer weigh from three to five pounds.

Jars of minced, cooked Virginia ham of a famous brand will be an appetizing part of many a week-end or Memorial Day picnic. The jars of minced ham sell in a market which handles cooked Virginia hams of the same famous brand at the very special price of 75 cents a pound, and the uncooked ones for 35 cents a pound.

Genuine imported Italian salami, foil wrapped, covered with cellophane will make a choice bit for many picnics these warm days. It is sold in the shop of an importer of Italian foods in a downtown market.

Olive butter, made of minced green olives seasoned with pimentos, is an interesting product that should go into many holiday menus. It sells in 25 cent jars in a large grocery store in the downtown district.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

TAPIOCA HIGH FAVORITE AMONG LIGHTER DESSERTS

By ANN BARRETT

Here's one, for example, that's particularly timely right now—strawberry and rhubarb tapioca. For this, first add 1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca and ¼ teaspoon salt to 1 and ½ cup hot water. Cook in top of double boiler 5 minutes. Then add 2½ cups rhubarb cut in inch-pieces, and cook 10 minutes longer. Next add 1¼ cups sugar, remove from fire, add ¾ cup halved strawberries, and chill. Serve with plenty of whipped cream or custard sauce.

When red cherries and raspberries come in handier than strawberries, just use them instead. That's one of the nicest things about tapioca—it's so adaptable.

Standard Tapioca.

In fact, if you like your fruit better sweetened and served over your tapioca, you can have a slick dessert that way, too. Here's the recipe: First add 1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt to 1 quart scalded milk. Cook this in top of double boiler till clear (about 15 minutes). Then give an egg yolk a few beats with a fork, turn into it a few teaspoons of the tapioca mixture and beat hard. Turn this into double-boiler mixture, and cook a minute longer. Remove from fire, add 1 teaspoon flavoring, and fold in 1 stiffly-beaten egg white. Chilled very cold, heaped up in thin glasses and sauced with sweetened strawberries—this makes eating!

Chocolate Tapioca.

You'd rather have chocolate tapioca? A lot of people would—regardless of seasons. Well, then, just remember to add 2 squares (ounces) of unsweetened chocolate (cut fine) to the ingredients you first put into the double boiler. Then, for another combination of flavors that's been popular since the first chocolate pep'mint candy—top this chocolate tapioca with a prepared marshmallow sauce flavored with mint extract.

Or turn the chocolate tapioca into a buttered baking dish, cover it with a meringue (made with 2 egg whites, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar and a few drops of almond extract) and bake in a slow oven (325) till delicately browned.

Butterscotch Tapioca.

In case you should be of a mind with actress Constance Bennett on the delights of butterscotch flavor, here's how to apply it to the tapioca theme. Put 4 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca and ½ teaspoon salt with 4 cups scalded milk in top of double boiler. Cook till clear (about 15 minutes) stirring frequently. Then pour a small amount of this mixture over 2 well-beaten eggs, stir vigorously, and return this mixture to the double boiler. Stir constantly and cook till thick. Next cook 4 tablespoons butter and 2-3 cup brown sugar in heavy pan till sugar is dissolved and mixture bubbles. Remove tapioca from fire, beat in this sugar mixture, and chill. Serve with whipped cream and pecans.

'MOTHER'S CHICKEN PIE' RECIPE WINS $5

Mrs. Stanley H. Powell, of Georgetown, Writes Prize Formula.

The recipe winning this week's Post recipe contest should find a place among the food formulas of every housewife. It is for Mother's Chicken Pie, and was submitted by Mrs. Stanley H. Powell, of 3032 N street northwest, who received the prize of $5.

All recipes which are submitted in the weekly contests of The Post must have one or more ingredients which are sold by the advertisers of the Saturday Food and Home Economics Page of this paper.

Mrs. Powell's recipe follows:

Mother's Chicken Pie.

Cup up a medium size chicken as for stewing. Cover with boiling water and cook very slowly until tender. When chicken is nearly done add one teaspoon salt. Remove large bones and place the chicken in baking dish. Slightly thicken the stock the chicken was cooked in and season highly with salt, pepper and butter; add one minced onion and one diced cooked potato. Fill baking dish three-quarters full and cover with pie crust in which several incisions have been made that there may be an outlet for escape of steam. Bake in a moderate oven until crust is well risen and a golden brown. All ingredients may be purchased from Sanitary or A. & P. stores.

Stocks Drive to New Highs On Roosevelt's Gold Move

Mining Issues Join Rise as Sales Mount to 4,325,070 Shares.

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—The day's big financial news—President Roosevelt's move for canceling "gold clauses"—came just before markets were closing, but in time to send buyers scurrying for stocks and some commodities.

Prior to the announcement, shares had been feeding on their accumulated optimism, with most prices higher, some sharply so. Washington developments, however, threw fresh fuel on inflation fires and the market finished buoyantly at general gains of 1 to 17 points. The closing average broke through last September's high, its net rise being 2.1 points. Cotton blossomed out with a $2 a bale rally; wheat had previously closed higher.

Wall street's first impulse was to view prospective statutory departure from gold as inflationary from the price angle. In high banking quarters, however, it was pointed out that the step represented the Government's decision to smooth out embarrassing situations arising from the gold clauses in both Federal and corporation bonds, a question which has already been subject to court review.

The Government, under existing regulations, must issue gold bonds although it can not pay in metal at maturity, an obviously impossible state of affairs, and countless corporations with gold bonds outstanding find themselves similarly placed.

Bankers thus viewed this latest development as a local consequence of the country's departure from the gold standard and pointed out that it should have no effect on the currency at home, although it might mean a lower dollar in terms of foreign exchanges. These rallied after the Washington news was out, whereas they previously had been lower. Bonds suffered no interruption of their advance.

Gold mining issues bustled into action. Homestake soared 17¾ to $116½ and closed at the top. Dome, McIntyre, Alaska Juneau and U. S. Smelting, which has gold properties, had gains ranging up to 3 points. The U. S. Steel issues, American Can, American Telephone, General Motors, American Tobacco "B", Allied Chemical, National Biscuit, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and New York Central improved 1 to 3, while Du Pont soared more than 5 and Case nearly 9. Alcohol issues, effervescent all day, were up 3 to 7. Utilities lagged a bit. Sales totaled 4,325,070 shares.

The closing composite of 90 stocks, standing at 74.2, broke through the high of last September's rally, a feat it had been threatening to accomplish for some time. Both the rail and industrial divisions made new tops for the year, but utilities were still some half dozen points under their 1933 top.

Although the market's hasty interpretation of Washington happenings explained the late flurry, sentiment had earlier been bolstered by trade and business news. The Dun & Bradstreet Weekly Review said that in no week during the last three years have the reports covering most lines of productive and distributive activity contained no Germany evidences of consistent improvement, with more pronounced gains in prospect as the credit expansion program, now functioning, releases fresh funds into industrial and commercial channels."

BONDS AGAIN CLIMB TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—Further strength of secondary rail loans lifted the bond market to new high levels for the year today as freight car loading reports and general business news continued most optimistic.

Sales totaled $14,979,000, par value, slightly under yesterday's aggregate, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced six-tenths of a point to 75.2.

The more active carrier loans were up 1 to around 4 points.

United States Government securities were steady to firm, although not especially active. Improvement was shown by most foreign obligations, including some of Argentina, Austria, Brazil, Denmark, France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain. German bonds were irregular.

American Industries Climb To High Ground for 1933

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—The National Lumber Manufacturers Association today reported that lumber orders again exceeded those of a year ago in the week of May 20. New business amounted to 237,759,000 feet, as against 224,111,000 the preceding week and 127,932,000 in the same week a year ago.

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—More consistent improvement in trade and business was reported in the Dun & Bradstreet Review today than in the last three years. "The rise in general business," the Review said, "is sufficiently high to reveal its stability."

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—Shipments of automobile springs by the Reynolds' Spring Co. this month will be the largest of any month since 1929, President Charles G. Munn announced today.

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—J. B. Berryman, president of the Crane Co., said today the company is "enjoying such a brisk pickup in business that it is planning to add more men to the pay roll."

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—Joseph Triner, head of the Joseph Triner Winery, today said the company was far behind orders because bottle companies were unable to supply the demand.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—Gray cloths became strong and active today under impulse of reports, from Washington that the industrial recovery code will become effective in cotton goods July 15. Large sales of 38½ inch 64x60s were made at 5 cents, up ¼ cent from recent quotation. Finished goods were less active than gray cloths. Wool goods were strong with many lines withdrawn from sale. Rayon was strong, sales being made into August. Burlaps were strong at the season's top prices.

CURB MARKET RISES ON HEAVIER TRADING

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—The curb followed an upward trend today, although considerable churning of prices occurred. Activity was again most noticeable in specialty issues, leaving oils and utilities rather quiet.

Axton Fisher Tobacco firmed around a point, while Hirman Walker followed the big board's "wet" groups with a slightly larger advance. Petroleum Company equities were again neglected by traders. Standard of Indiana sold off slightly.

Investment holding corporations were the strongest in some time. The turnover approximated 562,000 shares, compared with 491,000 yesterday.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for May 24 were $64,883,726.65; expenditures, $89,134,196.24; balance, $349,257,852.37; customs duties for 24 days of May were $16,378,713.99.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Fuel oil—Strength in the Gulf market has led to reports of an impending advance here in bunker fuel oil. The local price is 75 cents a barrel.

Burlap—The New York market is ruling at new high levels for some constructions. It is reported in the trade that buying in this country has broadened considerably, reflecting demand from various consuming trades other than bag manufacturers.

Drestuffs — Seasonal improvement in paint, rubber tire and chemical industries has brought a more active demand for leading items. Buying of benzol continues on a broad scale.

Men's clothing—Some lull in trading is expected as manufacturers and retailers adjust quotations on finished garments to the higher values on fabrics and trimmings.

Work clothing—The price trend is reported upward throughout the work shirt market. The market is not active on new business, but trade authorities believe that late buyers would find it difficult to arrange large early deliveries.

BANK OF FRANCE.

Paris, May 26 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 23,000,000; sight balance abroad unchanged; bills discounted at home increased 20,000,000; bills bought abroad increased 47,000,000; advances decreased 27,000,000; circulation decreased 457,000,000; current accounts increased 388,000,000. Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON RENEWED BUYING

Chicago, May 26 (A.P.).—Right-about-face market action gave a quick lift to grain prices late today, following a sudden influx of buying orders from the East.

Augmented buying was attributed to indications of fresh inflation moves. Grain trading had ended before definite word came of President Roosevelt's proposal for repeal of the gold standard act.

Assurance of Buyers.

Some of the reassurance on the part of wheat buyers in the late dealings was associated with Washington reports that unless commodity prices continued upward, further purchases of Government bonds by the Federal Reserve Bank would be resorted to.

There were also statements current from trade leaders that the administration proposed to exercise whatever part of its extraordinary powers seemed necessary to encourage an upward trend of prices.

These statements added that if commodity values continued to advance because of supply and demand factors, a minimum use of emergency powers would be made, but if markets appeared to falter, definite inflationary measures would be promptly exercised.

Jumps In Prices.

Restraint on demand appeared to be more or less due to uncertainties as to the outcome of conferences at Washington called to consider plans to put emergency farm legislation into effect.

Forecasts of clearing weather throughout the central West likely to allow better progress of corn planting were also a drag on corn and oats prices, and indirectly weakened wheat until the late buying flurry sent all grains kiting upward.

Heavy rains were reported in sections of Illinois, Iowa and Indiana, but had only a transient influence on the corn market. Provisions went upgrade, responsive to action of hog values.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON U. S. GOLD STAND

July Sells at 8.92, With General Market Up 39 to 42 Points.

New York, May 26 (A.P.).—Cotton advanced precipitately in the late trading today on the news of President Roosevelt's recommendation of repeal of the gold act.

Prior to the news the market had been ruling firm at net advances of slightly more than $1 per bale on commission house and trade support owing to relative strength at Liverpool and favorable reports from the cotton goods market.

October sold up from 8.82 to 9.18 and closed at 9.15 with the general market closing strong at net advances of 39 to 42 points.

Opening Is Higher.

The opening was 8 to 10 points higher on higher cables, and firmness of the stock market. The trade, commission houses and Liverpool were early buyers and with offerings relatively light prices rose to net gains of 18 to 21 points in the more active positions during the early trading.

At these levels, however, there was some local realizing and increased Southern selling apparently promoted by a more favorable view of the weather, particularly with reference to rain in dry portions of south Texas.

July sold off from 8.70 to 8.75 and December from 9.12 to 8.97; but the market renewed demand from wire houses and the trade, causing prices to rally again. In the last five minutes of trading active general buying carried prices up to net advances of 41 to 44 points and final levels were within a few points of the best.

NATS GAIN ON YANKEES BY 5-2 WIN OVER ST. LOUIS

Van Ryn-Lott Crush Argentinians to Clinch Davis Cup Match

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE American League pennant race is assuming all the aspects of an old-fashioned dog fight. With more than one-fifth of the season written into the club standings, the fifth place team is only three games behind the lead.

Yesterday's developments served to tighten the race further, with the Yankees succumbing to the White Sox and the Nats winning. Washington at present is only one game to the rear of the Yanks and barely a half-game ahead of the White Sox. The latter are in third place by a game margin over the Athletics, who are only a half-game ahead of the fifth place Indians.

That ought to please the American League magnates, who have been looking with envious eyes these many years on the tight National League races which have been coining money for clubs of that circuit. For the first time since 1925, neither the Yankees nor the Athletics are making a runaway race out of the league, at great cost to the receipts.

League Owes Nats Vote Of Thanks.

The entire league owes the Nats a vote of thanks for the manner in which they mishandled the Yankees in the first two weeks of the season. The New York club, which shows 12 losses on its record, suffered 4 of these at the hands of the Nats, who prevented the Yanks from going West with at least a six-game lead, and maintained the fans' interest throughout the circuit.

But recent developments show that the Nats are receiving some effective assistance from the other clubs in the circuit in their effort to overhaul the Yanks. New York started the season by winning its first 7 games, and since then have won only 18, compared to 12 losses. That's not pennnant winning baseball, and the suspicion is growing that the Yanks are not the sure thing that the bookmakers rated at 1 to 2.

New Threat Bared In Macks.

A new threat was uncovered during the past week in the rejuvenated Athletics who yesterday met up with their first defeat in eight games. The youthful crew of Connie Mack pulled itself up from the second division while the leaders were barely marking time and they will have considerable voice in the distribution of the pennant award, is the new belief.

The only club among the five now engaging in the free-for-all battle for the lead that hardly figures to stay up there is the White Sox. Despite their splendid early-season showing, the punch added by Simmons, Haas and Dykes, the Sox still lack a sustained attack and the high-caliber pitching that the other contenders can present.

This department pointed out recently that Connie Mack last year had Simmons, Dykes and Haas and was able to surround this trio with such as Grove, Walberg, Earnshaw, Foxx and Cochrane, yet finished thirteen games behind the lead. It's doubtful if the Sox can provide their new trio with such backing.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

Sam Gray did everything to delay the game yesterday but take a nap on the pitching mound . . . which reminds us that Bucky Harris was once suspended by the umpire for intentionally striking out in order to get the fifth inning over before a shower arrived . . . Bob Boken received a pat on the back from Earl Whitehill when he went to the dugout in the sixth after a remarkable stop of Gullic's hot shot . . . it saved Whitehill's shut-out game for the time being . . . the viability was very bad in the sixth just before the storm broke . . . but the Browns put together two hits for the first and only time during the game . . . when Umpire Dineen called a strike on Cronin in the first inning, Cronin insulted his eyesight by politely dusting off the plate with his cap.

Talk about your matched sets of clubs, well . . . have you noticed the new "Matched Sets" of clothes men are wearing at the country clubs? It's a Grosner idea of matching up coat, waistcoat and trouser in patterns but not in color. Men like the matchless price . . . and so will you!

Echeverria, Zappa Lose Doubles

6-1, 6-4 and 6-1 Sets Are Registered by Americans.

By DAVE HERMAN.

UNITED STATES yesterday won the right to meet the European tennis champions when the smooth-stroking combination of Johnny Van Ryn and George Lott crushed the fighting Argentine pair of Capt. Adriano Zappa and Adelmar Echeverria in the lone doubles of the intrazone Davis Cup matches at Chevy Chase by scores of 6—1, 6—4, 6—1.

Although two more singles remain to be played this afternoon, the Yankees clinched the honors by scoring their third victory of the five-match series. Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison started the Americans off on their triumphant march on Thursday by winning their singles matches easily from Capt. Zappa and the flashy Hector Cattarussa, respectively.

Vines and Allison In Doubles.

The spotlight today will be turned again on Vines and Allison. At 2:30 o'clock Vines will be pitted against Cattarussa, while at the conclusion of this match Allison will take the court against Zappa.

Unless the American stars inaugurate a bit of loafing, the United States triumph will be sealed late this afternoon with a clean sweep of the matches, and without the loss of a single set.

Yesterday's doubles matches were devoid of thrills and proved to be nothing but a good workout for the cool-headed Van Ryn and Lott. With the diminutive Zappa at the net and the bespectacled Echeverria patroling the back court, the South Americans executed a number of successful drives and smashes that won them the opening game.

Numerous Errors Committed.

Incidentally, that happened to be all for the Argentinians for the first act. The Philadelphia star and his Chicago companion took the situation in hand, volleyed with tremendous steam and lobbed with such deftness that the bronzed invaders found the pace much too swift. Lott was getting over his service beautifully as the Argentine committed numerous errors and the Americans breezed through the next six games speedily to capture the initial set, 6—1.

The Argentinians fought back in the second set after dropping the first game. With Zappa hitting his shots to various uncovered spots of the court, and Echeverria chiming in with several timely smashes and drop shots, the South Americans swung

Giants Clip Lead Of Pirates by 6 to 5

Pittsburgh, May 26 (A.P.).—The New York Giants clipped a game of Pittsburgh's lead in the National League pennant chase today, reducing the Pirates' margin to two games, as they slugged out a 6-to-5 victory in their first appearance at Forbes Field today.

Gus Mancusco's home-run wallop over the scoreboard in left field in the eighth provided the winning run after the Giants had come from behind to tie the score. Bill "Hard Luck" Harris was the victim of the blow after both starting pitchers, Heinie Meine, of Pittsburgh, and Fred Fitzsimmons, of New York, had been driven from the hill.

SHIRES SUED AFTER ROW; IS BAILED

Five Others Also Are Arrested, Two of Them Women.

LOUISVILLE Ky., May 26 (A.P.).—Art (the great) Shires made news three times today. Most newsy, perhaps, was that Mr. Shires engaged somebody else to do his talking for him; namely, Roscoe Searcy, attorney at law. Scarcely less important was a charge of malicious assault set for June 20 hearing, and a suit for $50,000 damages.

In police court, the Great Shires, slightly worse for wear but with sartorial elegance undimmed, arranged a $1,000 bond. With Shires, who decorates first base when the Columbia Red Birds are in the field, was Jimmy Adair, Louisville second baseman, who also was charged with malicious assault and allowed $1,000 bond.

Not present in court, but considerably interested, was one Jack Deacon, 32, nursing a broken leg and sundry lacerations in a hospital and trying to remember the details of a knock-down, drag-out fight in his South Third street house just before midnight last night. By mid-afternoon, he had remembered enough details to file suit for $50,000 damages charging Shires picked him up, in the midst of an altercation, and threw him downstairs.

Malicious Assault Charged.

Deacon faces charges of malicious assault and conducting a disorderly house. His bond was $600. Minor characters in the tableau include Robert Armstrong and Varrie Potts, both charged with malicious assault, and Ruth Carsons charged with disorderly conduct. All three, as well as Shires, are 26 years old.

Dressed in a natty sports suit, sports shoes and the latest thing in adhesive plaster, Shires gazed across his bruised and bandaged nose in court while the story was unfolded how Adair was believed in danger of being "rolled" for $125 by "a girl" and how Adair didn't like it. Also, how Deacon took up the girl's defense and Shires more than evened matters by defending Adair because "he's a small guy."

An audience that looked more like a cheering section was somewhat disappointed because they did not hear any of the loud and important noises which have been attributed to Shires. He was very busy keeping quiet. But they got an eyeful.

Stanley Briel, the prosecutor, scented the prospect of more serious business, and in fluent terms told the court Deacon's broken leg possibly would result in an amputation, and hinted that even death might result. Word from the hospital, however, was that Deacon was in no immediate danger.

SAVOLDI STOPS LUTZKE.

After swapping holds with his rival for a half hour, Savoldi leaped high and drove his feet into Lutze's chest. He then fell on him and pinned his shoulders in 31:19. Lutze was unable to return after a 15-minute rest and defaulted the match. Savoldi weighed 203 and Lutze scaled 205.

Stanford Wins Top Honors In Cambridge Meet Trials

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 26 (U.P.).—Stanford University's strong track and field team justified its selection as logical winner of the fifty-seventh annual I. C. 4-A championship by sending 15 men—more than any of the 31 other contesting colleges—successfully through the qualifying trials at the Harvard stadium today.

University of Southern California, battling to upset predictions and win a third successive championship and the sixth in a decade, was right on the heels of its Coast rival with 14 survivors of the first day's competition.

The honor of the East was upheld by Harvard, host to the assembled collegians, which showed unlooked for strength as nine wearers of the Crimson came through their trial and semifinal heats. New York University kept seven potential point getters in the running, and Yale five—though Eli had an ace in the hole in Keith Brown, expected to score high in both pole vault and high jump, in which there were no trials.

Southern California, too, held another good unplayed card in Bill Graber, defending pole vault champion, expected to dual with Keith Brown for first place in this event. Stanford, however, hoped its Bill Miller, Olympic and world champion, would be sufficiently recovered from an ankle injury to top the efforts of Graber and Brown.

But the formidable position of Ding Templeton's Cardinal band from Stanford lay in their apparent monopoly of strength in two field events—the shot put and discus—in which they qualified 4 and 3 men, respectively, today.

August Meier, of the Stanford squad, loomed as a possible double winner when he hung up the best qualifying time in both the hurdles.

Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, and Otto Pongrace, of Michigan State, made the best showing in the 800, each winning his heat in 1:55.6. Ben Eastman, of Stanford, not fully recovered from an ankle injury and listed as a doubtful scorer by his coach, barely eked out a third qualifying place in the first heat, which went to Bill Keller, of Pittsburgh.

Hafey's Homer in Ninth Beats Dodgers for Reds

Cincinnati, May 27 (A.P.).—Chick Hafey stepped up to the plate with the score tied at 2-2 and none out in the ninth inning today and smashed Van Mungo's second pitch over the left-field fence for a home run that gave the Reds a 3-to-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today.

Cards Defeat Phillies On Single in 14th, 5-4

St. Louis, May 26 (A.P.).—Ernest Orsatti's single scored Dizzy Dean with the winning run in the fourteenth inning today and the St. Louis Cardinals took the first game of the series with the Phillies, 5 to 4.

Dean allowed three triples in the first inning, but tightened up thereafter and struck out eight men. Klein got a homer in the thirteenth, but the Cards tied the score again on a run manufactured from a walk, sacrifice and single.

3-Run Rally in Ninth Fails; Lou Gehrig Slightly Hurt.

NEW YORK, May 26 (A.P.).—The 1933 model Chicago White Sox brought their heavy artillery into the Yankee Stadium today and outslugged the champion Yanks to win the first game of their series, 8 to 6. The victory gave the Sox a clear hold on third place in the American League, breaking their tie with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Chicago pounded Charley Ruffing and Danny MacFayden for fifteen hits, bunching most of them in the last four innings, but they had a narrow escape when the Yanks staged a last-frame rally for three runs.

Young Paul Gregory held the Yankees to six hits in his stay on the mound and cracked out a double and two singles, scoring twice and driving in one tally. He showed signs of weakening in the eighth and Red Faber was rushed in. The veteran forced Ben Chapman to hit into a double play, but after two were out in the ninth New York cut loose with three hits, including a triple by Earl Combs and a double by Joe Sewell for its closing rally before Babe Ruth grounded out to end the game.

Lou Gehrig Suffers Leg Injury.

Lou Gehrig suffered a slight leg injury in the third inning when he took a headlong plunge over a low iron gate into a field box when going after Lew Fonseca's foul fly. He remained in the game until the eighth when he was removed for a pinch runner.

Al Simmons continued his batting streak through the sixteenth game, hitting two singles. Luke Appling hit a home run in the first half of the ninth, circling the bases when Combs overran his drive into center field.

Shower Breaks Too Late To Save Hopeful Browns; Whitehill Permits 4 Hits

Blaeholder Pounded Out in 1st Inning; Game Ends in 7th.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH

EARL WHITEHILL delivered for the Nats yesterday and the clouded heavens failed to deliver for the Browns. Washington won the ball game from the Browns and the weather man, 5 to 2.

The Nats were breezing along nicely with a 4-run lead in their sails as the result of their first-inning efforts against George Blaeholder when things went black overhead and a southwest gale whipped a sprinkling of rain over the diamond in the third inning.

Play Waiting Game All For Naught.

The Browns took their cue and took their time in the hope the shower would break and wash out Washington's lead and the ball game. They played a waiting game that was a classic. Sam Gray, who had succeeded Blaeholder in the box as early as the first inning, was the personification of ultra-slow motion. He could do more things with a ball before pitching it than J. P. Morgan could do with a holding company.

But the storm wouldn't break despite Gray's prayerful antics. The game dragged through the third with the heavens more sinister than ever, but holding back their leakage. Into the fourth it went and passed on into the fifth. But, with his mates going out in order at the bat, Gray received no help from that quarter in his dilatory tactics. The contest went legal when the third Brownie went out in the fifth.

Browns' Hopes Dampened By Rain.

And then the irony of it all. Just when the Browns were showing signs of coming to life and solving Whitehill's offerings with a two-run stand in the seventh, the rain that they had courted so diligently in the early innings descended in the Nats' half of the seventh. The umpires waited the customary half hour, then called the game and sent the Ladies Day fans out into dew.

It was a sweet game for the Nats to win. The scoreboard had already revealed that the Yankees had been knocked off by the White Sox and the Nats pulled to within a game of the lead. And the scoreboard also showed that they had gained a full game on the hard-pressing Athletics and Indians, who had taken the count from the Red Sox and Tigers, respectively.

Four-Run Lead In First.

Blaeholder beat the Nats in their recent visit West, but he was a beaten pitcher yesterday as early as the first inning when they rapped his offerings for five hits, four in a row, after two were out, to set themselves up in the four-run lead that was to decide the game.

Blaeholder's mates were pounding frantically and futilely at Whitehill's deceptive cross-fire for six innings, during which they were held to two hits, both occurring with two out, and only one man saw third base on the Nats' southpaw. They scored two runs in the seventh on a walk to Melillo, a single by Levey and Whitehill's own wild throw to first base, but with two men still on, he fanned Burns to put down the uprising and finished up with a four-hit game.

Manush sounded the tocsin for the Nats' first inning onslaught against Blaeholder, by singling through shortstop between outs by Rice and PHILADELPHIA, May 26 (A.P.).—With a 14-hit barrage and a 10-to-1 victory, the Detroit Tigers today ended the Philadelphia Athletics' seven-game winning streak which carried them into the first division.

Aided by home runs by Ray Hayworth and Henry Greenberg, and the A's five errors, the Tigers got to Rube IoyWalberg, Jim Peterson and Hank McDonald for the victory.

12,000 SEE BLACK TARGET WIN BOWIE LADIES' DAY FEATURE

War Banner Beats Out Moon Shy

'Allanah Leads From Start to Finish to Pay $10.40.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THE first ladies' day in the history of Maryland racing went over with a bang at nearby Bowie yesterday, some 12,000 celebrating the free admittance of the fair sex. And the females of the species represented a healthy 50 per cent of the gathering and the ladies were not averse to betting. The lines down under the stands and up in the back were multicolored as the girlies dug into their purses to back this horse and that. In real feminine fashion, there were shrieks as the fields thundered, or whatever they do, down the stretch. Between races there was a lot of "I haven't seen you in years" and "where did you get the cute hat."

To get back to the vulgar racing, the feature proved a hop, skip and jump of 6 furlongs for Black Target, a son of Black Watch. Louie Morris, the veteran rider from Washington and in silks for the first time in many moons, rode the winner on the Bill Daily, which is slang for getting on top and staying on top.

Black Target Pays $7.80.

In fact, Black Target appeared to be shot out of the barrier, so fast did Morris get him away. Rustic Lady and then War Banner did a lot of excellent chasing, but on the far turn Morris gave the leader a breather and then opened up in the stretch to win easily by three lengths. War Banner stayed to take the place ahead of Moon Shy.

Black Target was what the boys call a good thing, being knocked down in the betting from 8 to 1 to 3 to 1. The approximate odds were right and the winner paid $7.80.

Jockey Munden and Kanal turned in a sharp performance in the opener fashioned for 2-year-olds over the 5-furlong course. Kanal, which scored impressively here earlier in the week, ran High and Mighty into the ground on the swing for the stretch and then went on to triumph over Chips and Horatio Hugh, a pair of long shots. The last named was knocked back going around the far turn, but recovered to put up a lightning finish. The winning favorite paid $5.40.

Glen Burnie took the second race in a driving finish with Canteret and Sister Madge. It was a 6-furlong test for horses foaled in Maryland. Ruth Tidings and Rock Sun battled for the early lead, but both were out of it when the real running came. Glen Burnie paid an $11.40 mutuel.

Allanah, with the unfashionable Cassard in the saddle, led from start to finish to take the third race, another 6-furlong dash. Help Me came from far back to take the place, beaten a length. Third money went to Grace Blotter. The winner was a luke warm second choice and supplied the girls and boys with a $10.40 mutuel.

KANAL, away in the first flight and showing good speed, took a slight lead when leaving the back stretch, raced HIGH AND MIGHTY into submission to draw clear, but had to be shaken up nearing the finish to stall off CHIPS. Latter, going easy in the leaders, came courageously when placed to punishment in the final drive. HORATIO HUGH was shuffled back when reaching the turn, settled in his stride and came stoutly at the end. PEDERGOE was hard ridden and saved ground all the way. HIGH AND MIGHTY stopped after a fast three furlongs. EVA B. displayed early foot.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Foaled in Maryland. Start poor from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:10. Winner, Mrs. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GLENBURNIE, $11.40, $5.00, $4.40; CANTARET, $7.80, $5.20; SISTER MADGE, $5.40.

GLENBURNIE, away in the first flight, but outrun for the first half mile, came around the faltering leaders to take command inside the final furlong and, under strong handling, outstayed CANTARET. Latter, taken to the outside when acting fractiously, improved her position steadily and fought it out stoutly nearing the finish. SISTER MADGE, away poorly, circled her field to close an immense gap. TUT TUT, also away poorly, came with a belated rush. RUTH TIDINGS sprinted into the stretch, but stopped badly. GAIT was away very slowly along with TUT TUT. STELTON had early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:39. Off at 3:39. Winner, C. Rullicoat's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALLANAH, $10.40, $5.00, $3.80; HELP ME, $4.20, $3.00; GARCE BLOTTER, $4.40.

ALLANAH moved clear midway of the back stretch, opened up a winning lead when entering the home stretch, but began tiring and had to be stoutly urged at the end. HELP ME, slow to get going, closed full of run in the last half mile. GRACE BLOTTER, swung to the outside of the leaders and gained resolutely approaching the finish. BATTLING KNIGHT was under strong handling all the way. ORAL forced a steady pace while showing ground, but tired when the real issue came. FAIR SUN went evenly. ETERNAL MAID stopped, as did HELPFUL.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK TARGET, $7.80, $4.40, $3.40; WAR BANNER, $4.40, $3.40; MOON SHY, $3.40.

BLACK TARGET moved into command at once, was given a breathing spell when leaving the back stretch and then came out stoutly when mildly shaken up. WAR BANNER, prominent all the way, held on well in the final drive. MOON SHY, a slow breaker, was rushed up into a forward position, but could not trouble the first two after the first five furlongs. NEALON KAY was hard ridden and had no excuses. ALAR lost a lot of ground when entering the home stretch. RUSTIC LADY stopped early.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:43½. Winner, R. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIRLY WILD, $9.00, $4.60, $2.80; ZEMBLA, $4.40, $3.00; BROWN SINNER, $2.80.

FAIRLY WILD, rated close to the leaders, moved up to displace SKIRT when leaving the back stretch, opened up a safe lead and held away to the end. ZEMBLA, slow to get into her best stride, worked her way up on the outside, but could not threaten the winner. BROWN SINNER entered contention steadily but was held safe in the late stages. CANTERWOOD raced prominently for seven furlongs and then tired. CANTER LANE was forced wide at the first turn, and was unable to threaten the leaders. PRIMLIN had no excuses. SKIRT quit when challenged.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:14. Winner, J. J. Hosan's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JODHPUR, $11.00, $6.00, $4.00; ANGRY LASS, $21.60, $6.20; DUNROCK, $3.80.

JODHPUR, permitted to settle in his best stride after saving ground at the first turn, worked his way into the leaders on the inside, continued to move up on the inside when reaching ANGRY LASS, and was up in the final sixteenth mile. ANGRY LASS, taken into the lead with a rush, held on stoutly when the final drive came. DUNROCK, going in his best form, was used up racing POLITEN into defeat and he weakened. EGAD moved up with good speed midway of the final turn, but tired thereafter. FETISH had speed in spots. BRIGHT DAY had a rough trip. POLITEN was made too much use of early.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR BILL, $19.40, $7.70, $6.40; RUANE, $4.80, $4.20; LIGHT BREEZE, $9.80.

FAIR BILL, trailing his field and badly outrun for six furlongs, was placed to punishment in the last half mile and, moving around his field with excellent speed, wore the leaders down in the last sixteenth mile. RUANE, showing much improvement, raced reserved until the final half mile, then closed stoutly. LIGHT BREEZE, well up in the early racing, held on strongly. MING SUN had a lot taken out of him to gain a brief lead and he weakened nearing the finish. CLOUDY DAY was hurried to the front, shook off COLONIAL BEAU, but faltered after saving a lot of ground. COLONIAL BEAU tired. CHATTY was never dangerous.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

BOWIE RACE TRACK.

DEAR AL:

There will be other ladies' days at Maryland tracks in the fall. At least this was the general opinion after the largest midweek crowd of the spring season turned out yesterday. Local officials were pleased, not only with the attendance, but with the amount handled in the mutuels. As for Bill Bennings, he picked the first three winners and then flopped. However, today is another day, even if it rains.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—HACKY H. has been sprinting since the opening of the season with little success. However, he has worked his way up to a race. He ran that last one from No. 1 post position and was never out of the heaviest going. Might have to go back to a sprint to win, but I like him right here. TAZEWELL and ULUNIU for the rest of it.

SECOND RACE—SYRIAC might go banging over the top in the race. Gets a track to his liking and seems to have found the right spot. CATERER has been trying all spring. Gets in light and may be a factor. DARK VISION to show.

THIRD RACE—CHATTERDOO on an off track is a threat in any field. Giving this one a chance to make good in fine company. RACE STREET and PIETY for the rest of it.

FOURTH RACE—LADINO is fit as those recent races say and under the conditions I'm not looking elsewhere for the winner. There are oodles of speed represented here. LADFIELD, despite hte weight, is a threat. ILCHESTER for the show.

FIFTH RACE—It is generally suicide to try to make a selling plater beat a stake horse. However, this TRAFFIC JUDGE may be an $8,000 plater for all we know. Have to give him a chance. CLOTHO romped home here and should be second. INDIAN RUNNER for the show.

SIXTH RACE—ANNIMESSIC is far too fit to pass up. Has had a rest after a lot of heavy work. NIGHT VINTAGE and FOXIANA for the other money positions.

SEVENTH RACE—POLAR BRUSH won't be far out of this one and I'm taking my chances in putting him on top. The Abels may decide to shift riders. NED O. was heavily played last out and missed. BANDERLOG to show.

CANOE RACES TOMORROW.

The second in its series of four 3-mile canoe races under the auspices of the Delaware-Chesapeake division of the American Canoe Association, will be held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The start and finish will be at the Washington Canoe Club. The race will be for one-man double-blade canvas canoes.

SEEK GAME TOMORROW.

PHOENIX MEETS ALL-STARS.

Phoenix A. C. will play Miser's All-Stars tomorrow at 3 o'clock at Hyattsville. Tuesday Phoenix will play Dickerson two games at Dickerson, the first starting at 1 o'clock.

Barry Meets Belanger in Feature

MATCHMAKER FRANK MANN couldn't stage the Baer-Schmeling or the Carnera-Sharkey heavyweight go, but he got the next best thing, a battle between two of the semifinalists, Red Barry and Charley Belanger.

Barry will meet Tony Galento on the Baer-Schmeling affair, while Belanger is sure of the semiwind-up against an opponent to be picked on the Sharkey-Carnera battle.

Not since Bingo Joe Banovic stepped into the Alexandria arena and floored Bob Goodwin, last year, has there been a light-heavyweight with as much color as Belanger introduced here.

Belanger can go Banovic one or two better when it comes to a record. He has knocked out Jimmy Slattery and defeated such stars as Lou Scozza, George Nichols, Art Weigand, Tiger Jack Payne, Dick Daniels, Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion of the world; Leo Lomski, Martin Levandowski, Banovic, Matt Adgie, Tony Cancella, Fred Lenhart and Owen Phelps.

Lost Battle to Walker.

On top of these fights he has met and was defeated by Mickey Walker, the great Ace Hudkins, Maxie Rosenbloom and Tuffy Griffiths. Belanger was a participant in one of the greatest fights between big fellows in the 1932 season.

Before 70,000 persons at the Garden bowl last year he staged, along with Tony Shucco, a rip-roaring battle that had thee fans on their toes throughout. The Garden, for that affair, is awarding him the semifinal to the Baer-Schmeling championship go next month.

When Red Barry wants to fight, he can give any heavyweight in the business plenty of trouble. The Southeast red head, in some four years of boxing, gave only one poor exhibition, and that was against Lee Kennedy a few months ago. Kennedy appeared to have the "Indian sign" on the local boy.

A six-round battle offers Harry Kersey, conqueror of Bobby Lowry and who only last week knocked out Billy Essinger, against the rugged Cary Wright. Wright is undefeated in fourteen battles. Espisido Dizen faces Tom Horn in the opener.

Schmeling's Betrothal Is Reported and Denied

Berlin, May 26 (A.P.).—The newspaper Tempo today says that Max Schmeling, former heavyweight boxing champion, and Anny Ondra, Czecho-born German film star, will be married in July.

Lake Swannanoa, N. J., May 26 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling paused at his lunch today long enough to deny reports that he is to marry.

Of Anny Ondra the boxer said, "She is a friend and a very fine girl, but we are not going to be married."

CRIMSON INSECTS BOOKING.

TECH RELAY VICTORY BRINGS HIGH TRACK CROWN

100 yd. Mark Equaled by Pearson

Sprinkle and Koscis Are High Individual Point Scorers

POINT SCORE.

Tech	52 2-3
Eastern	49 1-3
Central	16
Western	18

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

HIS gleaming steel spikes churning the rain-soaked cinders in a thudding rythm, Capt. Joe Hartman, of Tech's 1-mile relay team, sprinted into the tape a full 10 yards ahead of Joe Mahoney, of Eastern, to return the Maroon and Gray victorious in the thirty-sixth annual interhigh school track and field meet yesterday at Central Stadium. Winning the relay race, final event of fourteen, supplied Tech with the necessary points to come from behind and nip Eastern by the slim margin of 52 2-3 to 49 1-3.

"Runt" Pearson, Tech's pint-sized speed merchant, equalled the all-time meet record of 10 seconds flat in the century, but aside from this brief exhibition of brilliant running the meet produced nothing extraordinary in either track or field events. But the keen competition between Tech and Eastern, whom observers had predicted would fight it out for the title, kept the 500 fans buoyed to a high pitch of excitement.

All Flat Races To Tech.

A predominance of power in the track events brought the olive wreath back to the Eckington school. Tech won all of the flat races, placed second and third in the low hurdles and second in the high hurdles for 32 of its points. Field events were Eastern's strong suit and its progress in this line of endeavor might have been steady enough to offset Tech's racing advantage had it not been for the presence of stocky Frank Koscis, of Central.

Koscis won the shot-put and javelin throw and placed third in the discus and broad jump for a total of 12 points. He was second to Dave Sprinkle, of Eastern, in individual point scoring; Sprinkle nosing him out with 13.

Pearson's triumph in the 100-yard dash climaxed a brilliant race with Joe Ryan, of Central, and George Bogan, of Tech. Ryan assumed command of the situation at the 50-yard mark with Pearson second and Bogan third. The three raced into the tape closely bunched but with Ryan the apparent victor by inches. However, officials viewed the finish in another light and declared Pearson the victor.

Johnny Leiss ran an evenly paced race to win the 1-mile run in the slow time of 4:47.

Gray Scores Upset At 440 Yards.

Steve Gray, of Western, scored an upset in the 440-yard run to win over Jimmy Condit and Joe Hartman, of Tech. Gray lay sixth as the field rounded the far turn, with Mahoney, of Eastern, leading. He pulled up to fourth going into the stretch and sprinted into the lead in the final 100 yards to win by a yard.

A bit of speedy legging in the second leg of the mile relay was the turning point in Tech's victory over Eastern. Mostow presented the Blue with a comfortable lead of 10 yards in the first quarter, but Condit ran Lewis into the ground in overcoming this disadvantage and obtaining the lead for Tech. Emmerick held the lead safe over Joe Keegin and handed Hartman a 5-yard advantage over Mahoney in the last quarter-mile leg.

Bud Wallace, of Tech, almost nipped Eastern's ace hurdler, Vic Carron in the 220-yard obstacle race. Carron took a slight lead at the outset, but fell back into a slower race going into the stretch, where Wallace overtook him. They were leaping the timber in unison as they came down the final 100 yards, but Carron's foot touched soil an instant before that of his rival on the last barrier and he crossed the line a scant yard in the lead.

HADLEY DUE TO OPPOSE STEWART

Victory Today Would Give Nats Sweep in Brown Series.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IRVING (BUMP) HADLEY, former Nat, and Lefty Walter Stewart, ex-Brownie, will meet in a challenge pitching duel in today's final of the series between the two clubs. It seems that some asperations have been cast against the two flingers by their former mates. They reached Hadley's ears and he told Manager Bill Killefer, of the Browns, that he would like to settle the argument in a face-to-face meeting with Stewart, even being willing to work out of turn for the chance. This just suited Stewart, so the two will twirl against each other in this final game here. Victory for the Nats means a series sweep.

There is no telling when Cassie Bluege's injured leg will be back to normalcy, although considerable improvement was reported yesterday. Bob Boken is getting the call right now, but if he slumps at bat, Cecil Travis will get another chance.

Skipper Killefer shifted his lineup yesterday, moving Burns to the lead-off spot and dropping Levey down to seventh place. Gullic replaced Garms in centerfield and hit fourth, with Campbell moving down to fifth.

Gray uncorked one of the wildest of wild pitches in the third, Kuhel advancing all the way from first to third on it.

Reynolds had to do some tall hustling to rob Myer of an extra-base blow ending round 3. He made the catch close to the stands in left-center.

Had Manush confined his efforts to running and not to looking at the ball he might have beaten the ball to third in the fifth when he attempted a two-base advance on Goslin's single.

Boken came through with one of those "can't be done" stops in the sixth, robbing Gullic of a hit and the Browns of a run, for Reynolds was on third at the time.

Allen Succeeds Speaker as Pilot

Kansas City, May 26 (A.P.).—Nick Allen, former major league catcher and fiery manager of the St. Paul Club, was appointed pilot of the Kansas City American Association Club today, relieving Tris Speaker, who will devote much of his time as club secretary to the task of combing the bushes and trading in the big time for playing talent.

The new deal finds Speaker as secretary and Bill Rodgers, a part owner, as coach and scout.

Speaker was dissatified with the player deals, in one of which Bob Boken went to Washington in a straight cash transaction, although it was announced originally that the Blues were to receive two players for him.

Boston, May 26 (A.P.).—The Red Sox shut off a late-game rally today to defeat Cleveland, 6 to 5, and even the series.

The Indians made only seven hits while the Sox were collecting nine, but Henry Johnson weakened in the eighth and George Pipgras took over the mound duties in the ninth. Cleveland scored twice in each of the last two frames to all but tie the score.

Roy Johnson hit a home run in the third after Henry Johnson had doubled, and Harland Boss, Indian first sacker, banged out a circuit wallop in the fifth with the sacks empty.

Mrs. Morrow Is Low Gross at Rolling Road

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 26.—Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of the Elkridge Hunt Club, showed her knowledge of the Rolling Road Golf Club course today by winning the low gross silver prize in the Maryland State Golf Association women's medal play tournament with a brilliant 88 against a field of 75. She is the Maryland State and Gibson Island titleholder. Mrs. M. Louise Bell, of Rodgers Forge, scored low net with 94—12—82.

Seven other Washingtonians competed. They were Mrs. H. A. Knox, Congressional; Mrs. J. W. Bellar, Columbia; Mrs. J. F. Dowdall, Congressional; Mrs. C. B. Amorous, Congressional; Mrs. F. M. Yager, Congressional; Mrs. D. M. Patrick, Congressional, and Mrs. H. R. Harper, Congressional.

NATS BEAT BROWNS, 5-2, IN SHORT GAME

Goslin. Then things began to happen. Cronin doubled to center, Kuhel singled through Scharein, Myer doubled to right and handy Bob Boken singled to center, and the Nats had their four runs.

The Nats scored another superfluous run in the sixth when the game had been made safe from the weather man. Buddy Myer singled and Luke Sewell singled. When Reynolds fumbled Sewell's hit and then held the ball for no good reason, Myer raced all the way home.

When the beclouded heavens finally interrupted the game in the seventh, the Nats had Goslin on base by virtue of a single off Jack Knott, the third of the Browns' pitchers.

CELTICS MEET EAGLES.

St. Mary's Celtics will entertain the Anacostia Eagles today at 3 o'clock on Baggett's Field.

Court Finals Reached by Miss Ryan

Star to Team Today With Mme. Mathieu in Doubles Play.

AUTEUIL, France, May 26 (U.P.).—Elizabeth Ryan, self-expatriated Californian, today reached the finals in the women's doubles of the French tennis championships.

Paired with Mme. Rene Mathieu, No. 1 ranking French player, Miss Ryan, now a resident of England, will meet the all-French team of Colette Rosambert and Mme. Marie Henrotin.

Miss Ryan and Mme. Mathieu attained the finals when they defeated Josianne Sigart, of Belgium, and Peggy Scriven, of England, 7—5, 6—2.

In the other semifinal, the Rosambert-Henrotin team triumphed over Lolette Payot, of Switzerland, and Simone Barbier, of France, 3—6, 6—3, 6—1. A cold drizzle hampered play in this match.

Another Californian, Helen Jacobs, U. S. champion, seeded No. 2 in the women's singles, managed to remain in competition while her fellow-American, Frank X. Shields, was ousted from the men's doubles in the quarter-final round.

Miss Jacobs In Easy Victory.

Miss Jacobs smashed to an easy 6—3, 6—0 victory over Marie Fournier, of France, in the second round of the singles. Shields and his partner, Dr. Daniel Prenn, top ranking German player, were eliminated by the Australian Davis Cup stars, Vivian McGrath and Adrian Quist, 8—6, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3. Lack of coordination cost the German-American team the match. Shields also was hampered by a slow playing surface, which slowed up his blistering drives.

In another quarter-final, Henri Cochet and Andre Merlin, of France, defeated Jack Crawford and Dun Turbull, Australian Davis Cuppers, 6—3, 6—4, 7—5.

Jean Borotra, of France, paired with his countryman, Jacques Brugnon, furnished the most exciting match of the day when they disposed of the Japanese aces, Jiro Satoh and R. Nunoi, 5—7, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, 11—9, in another quarter-final. The deciding set was bitterly fought and there were many prolonged volleys.

Tomorrow, Miss Ryan, paired with Norman Farquharson, South African Davis Cup star, also will compete in another quarter-final of the mixed doubles against Borotra and Mme. Henrotin.

Dempsey Set To "Battle" Schmeling

Will Climb Into Ring Today for Round of Training.

NEW YORK, May 26 (A.P.).—The unusual spectacle of a boxing promoter actually testing the wares of one of his fighters will be offered tomorrow when Jack Dempsey climbs into the ring with Max Schmeling to box one round or less with the German.

The old "Manassa mauler," now at the doddering age of 38, is visiting both of the principals in his scheduled heavyweight fight in the Yankee Stadium June 8, to see how they are coming along in their training, making his first stop at Schmeling's camp at Lake Swannanoa, N. J. Sunday he will box with Max Baer, the Californian, at Atlantic City.

Won't Let Himself Be Battered.

Of course, it is all in fun, and Dempsey hardly would run the risk of loosing any damaging blows at his two gladiators, but Jack said today that if anyone started trying to send any "naturals" at his chin he wasn't going to just take it.

"I'm not going in there to make myself look bad, you know," the former heavyweight champion explained.

Md. and St. John's Stickmen to Meet

Second place in the State lacrosse championship race will be at stake today when Maryland and St. John's clash at College Park starting at 3 o'clock. It will be the final contest of the season for both teams.

Annually one of the bitterest matches of the year, the fray is expected to be a lively one from the start. The Terps took last season's match by a score of 5-2 after losing three straight to the Bay City ten. St. John's lost to Johns Hopkins and Maryland during the current season, but Maryland turned the tables on the West Pointers. Maryland boasts a record of four victories against a single defeat.

Johnny Mitchell will replace Norwood Sothoron, Old Line defense man, today. Sothoron was injured last week against Hopkins. The Johnnies' line-up will be intact.

Turnesa Still Sets Pace In "Met" Open With 71

Mamaroneck, N. Y., May 26 (U.P.).—Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., continued to set the pace in the Metropolitan Open Golf championship today when he added a 71, one under par, to his 70 of the first round. Turnesa's total of 141 for 36 holes tops his nearest rival, Willie Macfarlane, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., by 3 shots. Olin Dutra, of Brentwood, Calif., the defending champion, took a 78 for a 36-hole total of 149.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THREE broadcasts will be heard from Chicago, the first at 11 o'clock this morning, the second at 8:15 tonight, and the third at 10:32 o'clock, in connection with the Century of Progress Exposition. President Roosevelt is expected to be among the listeners. The broadcasts will be carried around the world by short-wave.

The first will originate at Soldiers' Field, where the colorful ceremony known as the "Salute of the Nations" will take place. Brief addresses will be made by Postmaster General Farley, representing the President; Gov. Henry Horner, of Illinois; Mayor Edward J. Kelley, of Chicago, and Rufus Dawes, president of the exposition. All three Washington network stations will carry the program —WRC, WMAL and WJSV.

Music and science will share the spotlight during the 8:15 evening program. Lawrence Tibbett will be heard to the accompaniment of a 2,000-voice chorus and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Frederick Stock.

During these ceremonies listeners will "hear" a star, when a light impulse from Arcturus, 240 trillion miles away, will be utilized to switch on the Century of Progress lighting system. The ray of light, which will be picked up at four separate observatories and transmitted over wire lines to Chicago, left Arcturus 40 years ago at the time of the Columbian Exposition in Chicago. All three Washington chain stations will carry this program.

THE third broadcast from Chicago, at 10:32 o'clock tonight, will bring us the gayety of the "Quatre Arts" ball. This will be carried by WRC. The loud speaker will be a passport to the "Streets of Paris," in "A Century of Progress" grounds.

Gayly costumed artists will frolic through the streets and cafes to the swimming pool, just outside the Lido, where a diving and swimming exhibition has been planned as the feature entertainment.

Headlining this show will be Wally Colbath, diving champion; Jane Fauntz, former diving champion and breast stroke champion, and the comedy team of Frank Snary and Fred Springer.

Descriptions of the exhibition, the brilliance of Montmartre night life, street scenes and the music of orchestras playing in the Lido and in the open air pavilion, will be heard.

The Saturday Night Dancing Party, ordinarily heard at 9 p. m., will be delayed a half hour tonight in order that listeners on combined networks may listen to the Chicago ceremonies. This program is scheduled for WRC at 9:30 o'clock.

The glamour and pageantry attending the opening of the Chicago exposition will be described by Burton Holmes over the WEAF network at 6:15, but it has not been scheduled locally.

A DESCRIPTION of the final events of the Intercollegiate American Athletic Association's track and field championships will be heard over WJSV at 2:15 p. m., with Ted Husing officiating at the microphone. The meet this year at Soldiers Field at the Harvard Stadium at Cambridge, Mass., brings together the outstanding collegiate athletes from every section of the country.

Sprint men and distance runners, hurdlers, jumpers, vaulters and weight throwers will vie for the individual titles and it is expected that several records will be broken or equaled. Team honors in 1932 were won by the University of Southern California.

"Aunt Sue and Polly" had a New York audition yesterday morning, which shows the feature is attracting attention outside of Washington.

The fourth and concluding talk on Washington playground needs will be heard over WJSV at 6:30 p. m. The title of the subject is "The City's Parks—a Country Estate for Every Man."

THE Washington Hebrew Congregation Quartet will be heard Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock over Station WMAL on the sixth program of sacred music broadcast by representative choirs, sponsored by the Griffith-Consumers Co.

The quartet is composed of Mrs. Flora Sindell, soprano; Mrs. Flora Brylawski, contralto; George A. Meyers, tenor; John H. Marville, bass, assisted by Sol Minster, violinist.

The Ithaca College Choir, considered one of the leading choral organizations in the East, will present a half-hour concert over WMAL at 4 p. m. Albert Edmund Brown will direct.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN," or "Ten Legrees Below Zero," Ray Knight's conception of the Harriet Beecher Stowe classic, will adorn the Cuckoo program tonight. The special "adaptation" of the story, which will be heard over an N. B. C.-WJZ network, is in honor of the Players' Club revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at a New York theater. Knight is a member of the Players, and several of his fellow actors will be heard in this broadcast.

The Cuckoo version details the adventures of a slave who becomes a taxi driver, meeting incoming trains, and who is jailed for failure to file an income taxi report. In the calaboose Uncle Tom meets Eva, daughter of a mint julep planter, and Simon Legree, an evil mustache-grower.

It is possible that this program may be heard over WJSV, but, if not, can probably be picked up from another of the WABC stations. Time, 9:30 p. m.

Only time will tell whether this past Thursday will go down in history merely as Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle's second radio anniversary or as the birthday of his latest invention. The colonel plunged right back into his work and came out with a jigsaw puzzle made of cork which, he says, you can put together while taking your bath.

Morton Downey, one-time elevator boy, has invited Danny Cahill, elevator pilot at the New York studios, now on his vacation in Erin, to meet him in Dublin soon to paint the town green. Downey, who sets sail for Europe next week, seems to be the champion trouper of the network. Two weeks ago he was broadcasting from Los Angeles, last week from Chicago, this week from New York, and next either from aboard the S. S. Europa or London, England.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Among the vagrant trivia of the town that escaped the regular news columns is a story that concerns the court hearing when Tallulah Bankhead was being sued in some sort of civil action.

What with the objections of lawyers and bickering of witnesses, the case dragged on for hours. Finally, in exasperation, the exotic Alabama beauty objected: "Your honor, this case isn't getting on at all."

"Yes, it is," the magistrate wryly replied, "it's getting on to 4 o'clock when I quit."

Frenzied Finance.

Then there is that new Broadway producer who has become more than somewhat disgusted with eccentric playwrights. Purchasing a new show from this pair of impoverished dramatists, he was soon compelled to put a halt on their inclination to draw advance royalties.

According to the laws of the Dramatists' Guild, the producer must pay the living expenses of the authors during the tryout tour of the play. So the conniving writers plotted a scheme that would not only pay their living expenses, but also provide them with ready cash.

The show opened in Atlantic City, and the improvident dramatists arrived there with 21 separate bundles of laundry. They had solicited them from friends with the promise to get their laundry done at 25 per cent less than regular prices.

The playwrights had the laundry done at their Atlantic City hotel, charged all of it to their producer and then collected cash when they delivered the newly washed bundles back to their confederates.

A similar scheme was perpetrated by a gay young blade, who, suddenly losing his bundle of stocks and other wherewithal to purchase as he pleased, found himself saddled with an expensive lease in one of the more luxurious and restricted apartment hotels.

Tearful pleas of unexpected poverty, however, could not persuade the landlord to cancel the lease, and so the young man turned to other plans.

Escape at Last!

Walking into Bryant Park one night, he gathered a dozen of the most ragged and unkempt bench warmers he could find. He paraded them right through the lobby of his ultra-smart hotel, causing, of course, much annoyance to the other and affluent guests.

Night after night he repeated this, running a flop house for the unemployed in his $400-a-month apartment. The management vigorously protested, but there was nothing it could do.

It all ended as it was bound to end. Other tenants threatened to move, and, finally, the landlord was pleased to cancel.

IF May 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:40 a. m. to 10:55 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 4:45 p. m.

If there is any matter "hanging fire" on this day, do not try to force it through to a conclusion; let the influences operating on this day work it out naturally. Unusual unity and strength of purpose should be apparent in sales organizations. The surgeon will find himself most steady of hand, and delicate operations should result in success.

Born on May 27, you are a person who, without flurry and fuss, goes about his work, strives to do it well and expects others to do the same. You have a natural and healthy interest in other people and their pursuits, but you are not curious. You are always mindful of the comfort and happiness of others, and many a helpful thought do you entertain and carry out to make things pleasant for those around you. Both sexes attract friends of higher caliber. The women, invariably lovable, attract friends of a lovingly companionable nature. Happiest when married.

Boy Climbs Atop Bridge, Touches Wire and Dies

Kansas City, May 26 (A.P.).—Ten-year-old Earl Rickart climbed a girder of the A-B-B Bridge in North Kansas City today to investigate a bird's nest. He touched a power wire carrying 6,600 volts and fell dead.

JAPAN FIRM IN AIM TO INCREASE NAVY

Can Not Sign Arms Cut Pact if 5-5-3 Ratio Remains, Sato Tells Geneva.

Geneva, May 26 (A.P.).—Japan can not sign the projected general disarmament treaty if it refers to the Washington and London naval conventions which bind her to the short end of a 5—5—3 ratio, Tokyo's spokesman, Ambassador Naotake Sato, informed the disarmament conference today.

Reference to these former agreements, Mr. Sato said, would amount to perpetuating the present proportion in the new treaty, which is contrary to Japan's desires.

The Japanese delegate made it clear that his country proposes at the expiration of the London treaty in 1936 to seek a revision which will give the Japanese Navy greater relative strength in the face of American and British sea power.

The frank exposition of this attitude, which had been suggested by Japanese spokesmen on former occasions in earlier phases of the conference, was particularly disturbing today in view of recent revival of hopes for agreement among the great powers.

The Japanese declaration evoked a comment from Dr. Wellington Koo, delegate of China, who told the conference that China is the "victim of aggressions," obviously referring to Japan.

China, which has practically no navy, Dr. Koo said, reserves the right to create one because she is the object of continued armed invasion in violation of international agreements.

Girl Drillers Tied At Washington-Lee

Unable to determine the winners, the judges declared a tie between between Companies I and K. Company I was in command of Capt. Eloise Sunderman, while Capt. Margaret Kirschner was in command of Company K.

Company A, of the cadet corps, in command of Capt. Elmo Legg, was judged the winner over the other three companies. In the platoon drill the first platoon, Company A, in command of First Lieut. William Helms, carried off honors.

Hyattsville Picked For Forest Office

County offices at Hyattsville were selected as headquarters for the reforestation army recruiting service at a special meeting yesterday of the Prince Georges County commissioners.

The recently-appointed welfare board, which met with the commissioners, expects to complete the county's quota of 74 men within the next week.

After completion of recruiting, the board is expected to disband unless the State unemployment relief commission is able to fulfil its desire to have the board continue as a clearing house for county relief work.

Auto Brake Flaws Found 75 Per Cent

Faulty brakes, according to traffic regulation standards, were found in 75 per cent of the 23,000 automobiles inspected since January 1, William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic, announced yesterday.

A check-up on the mechanical equipment of all automobiles sold or transferred was begun by the traffic head as a move to decrease the number of accidents caused by faulty operation.

Mr. Van Duzer said that a mechanical inspection for all cars operated in the District should be ordered if budget conditions permitted.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

HELIUM, the strange gas that neither burns nor combines with other elements, has had a strange history in the world of science. Known now to almost every one as the gas that is used in dirigibles, helium was first discovered and named on the sun. Its presence there was detected by a scientific instrument, and it was thought that it did not exist on earth. The new gas was named "helium," after the Greek word for sun.

On earth helium, a gas, was first obtained from clevite, a mineral. Clevite, when heated, gave off an inert gas which was identified as the same as discovered on the sun. This mineral, and others, produce helium in varying quantities, but only at prohibitive prices.

Later helium was obtained from natural gas by a refrigeration process, wherein the gas is cooled to a liquid and then evaporated off. The price, with newer methods and sources, fell from $1,500 per cubic foot to 3½ cents.

The new patent law which allows patents on horticultural products developed by the naturalist was passed after the death of Luther Burbank, famous naturalist, who was noted for developing new plants. Since his death, and under the new law, patents have been granted on seven of these developments.

NEW TRAFFIC CODE NULLIFIES CURB ON AMBULANCE SPEED

Revised Regulation Nearly Same as Existed Prior to Restriction.

The revised District traffic regulations, which were adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners after a compromise with the Public Utilities Commission over conflicting authority, practically nullify an order adopted several months ago by the District heads restricting the speed of ambulances and police vehicles to 30 miles an hour and requiring that they stop at red lights and determine whether it is safe to proceed.

While the Commissioners' order, adopted after a protest was raised over a fatal accident involving an Emergency Hospital ambulance, has never been enforced and, though it was known to have been modified, the regulation included in the revised code is practically the same as existed prior to adoption of the speed restriction order.

Greater Safety Provided.

"The speed limits as set forth in these regulations shall not apply to apparatus and vehicles of the Police and Fire Departments and ambulances when operated in emergencies."

The new regulations otherwise are a simplification and in most instances an improvement on the former code. Greater safety is provided for pedestrians, one section stating:

Another regulation states that no vehicle shall overtake and pass a car which has stopped at an intersection to allow a pedestrian to pass.

The matter of right of way between vehicles meeting at an intersection when one intends to make a left turn is clarified in the following regulation:

"The driver of a vehicle within an intersection intending to turn to the left shall yield to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction which is within the intersection, or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard, that said driver having so yielded and having given a signal, when and as required by law, may make such a left turn, and other vehicles approaching the intersection from the opposite direction shall yield to the driver making the left turn."

Old Dobbin may be almost forgotten by this motor-conscious generation, but he is still governed by the District's traffic regulations. Two provisions in the revised code stated that a horse shall not be left unbridled or unattended, and that every horse-drawn vehicle shall be equipped with effective brakes.

Anacostia Bridge Light Will Be Ready Monday

A traffic light to warn when the drawbridge is about to be raised is being installed on Anacostia Bridge and will be in operation Monday morning, C. R. Whyte, District engineer of bridges, announced yesterday.

Wet Pavement Skidding Crashes Auto of Woman

Skidding on the wet pavement, the automobile of Mrs. Frances A. Paine, 30, Silver Spring, Md., crashed into a telephone pole yesterday afternoon on Georgia avenue near Walter Reed Hospital.

Mrs. Paine escaped injury, but her 2-year-old son, Nelson, suffered severe lacerations and bruises. He was treated at Walter Reed Hospital. The car was wrecked.

Fireman's Feet Burned Fighting House Blaze

CLASS OF 18 NURSES RECEIVES DIPLOMAS

Children's Hospital Awards Pins and Prizes at Exercises.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the exercises had to be held in the assembly hall of the hospital instead of in the "memory garden," as originally planned.

Addresses were made by Miss Mable T. Boardman, secretary of the American Red Cross, and Dr. Frank Leech, chairman of the medical staff of Children's Hospital. This was followed by the presentation of diplomas by Dr. Joseph S. Wall, chairman of the training school committee, after which Mrs. Joseph Bradley, member of the board of lady visitors, presented each nurse with her official pin, and prizes were distributed by Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, president of the board of lady visitors.

Yesterday's graduation was next to the last that will be held at Children's Hospital, as no students were taken this year and the training school is to be abandoned. Replacing the training school is a postgraduate and affiliate school for teaching of specialized nursing in connection with the care of children's diseases. The graduates yesterday were Miss Ruby D. Bare, Miss Mary P. Colston, Miss Sara Cooper, Miss Bessie L. Goolsby, Miss Branch B. Grove, Miss Elizabeth A. Heath, Miss Katherine E. Heyer, Miss Ruth E. Hinkle, Miss Henrietta E. Lippold, Miss Mary Marshall, Miss Frances D. Miller, Miss Mary A. McAdams, Miss K. Rosalie O'Neil, Miss Dorothy M. Riley, Miss Anna G. Scott, Miss Mattie W. Spann, Miss Laura B. Verner and Miss H. Wrong Night

That's What People Were Told Who Came to See Police Show.

Another night has been chosen for "A Song in the Night." The musical revue, scheduled for last night at the Belasco Theater, has been postponed until next Friday. Properties and necessary equipment, it seems, failed to arrive from New York.

Jamming the theater entrance to view the show, a presentation of the Fourth Police Precinct Benefit Fund, hundreds of persons were turned away last night and told to return in exactly a week.

The mother of Miss Edna Buckler, author and star of the production, came from Buffalo, N. Y., to see her daughter's talented offering. Others in the cast include Mary Hutchinson, former "Vanities" player, and John Shellie, well-known local actor.

3 WOMEN AMONG 7 TAKEN IN STILL RAID

1,500 Gallons of Whisky Mash Seized at 3800 Massachusetts.

A raid at 3800 Massachusetts avenue northwest by members of the police liquor squad yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest of seven persons and the discovery of 1,500 gallons of rye mash, 150 gallons of alleged liquor and a 200-gallon still.

Five prisoners were charged with illegal possession of articles designated for illegal manufacture, illegal possession of 150 gallons of liquor and manufacture. They are Jim Johnson, 24; Mae Ransom, 28; Ruth Ransom, 26; Ethel E. Rooke, 25, all of the Massachusetts avenue address, and Fred C. Rooke, 26, of Birmingham, Ala.

Two others, arrested at Twenty-ninth street and Woodland drive, gave their names as William T. Godfrey, 28, of 1244 Eleventh street northwest, and Paul Ransom, 24, of 902 L street northwest. The former was charged with illegal possession of 16 quarts of liquor and transportation, while the latter was charged with transportation, possession, no auto permit and speeding.

J. E. Beckett and G. C. Deyoe, of the liquor squad, trailed Godfrey and Paul Ransom from 3800 Massachusetts avenue after they had watched the house for several hours.

After Godfrey and Ransom had been arrested Beckett and Deyoe went back to the house and broke in, where they allegedly found the other members of the crowd about to start the still.

FIGHT ON PLASTERER WAGES HALTS WORK ON 7 U. S. BUILDINGS

Secretary Perkins Asked to Fix "Prevailing Scale" for Plasterers.

Work on seven Government building projects here is being delayed by a wage dispute between plastering contractors and the Plasterers' Union, it was learned last night.

After several weeks of negotiations between the two groups failed, the matter was placed before Secretary of Labor Perkins, and a decision from her is expected soon.

The dispute hinges on inability of contractors and the union to agree on a "prevailing scale" for the work, which must be paid on Federal projects.

200 Men Kept Idle.

According to George W. Lee, president of the Contracting Plasterers Association, the union demands a rate of $14 a day. The contractors have offered $10.

The litigation is keeping more than 200 men from immediate employment, Mr. Lee says. The buildings affected are the Interstate Commerce and Labor Building, the Department of Justice, the Archives Building, the Agricultural Extensible Building, the Supreme Court and the addition to the city postoffice.

All Work Tied Up.

The union claims that $14 is the prevailing wage for plasterers and is demanding that wage. The contractors claim that it is much less than that figure.

According to Mr. Lee the average wage paid to plasterers here is $7 per day. "Until we get a decision from the Secretary of Labor, the work on all seven buildings is tied up."

The law requires that men who work on Federal projects be paid the prevailing wage of the locale of the project. In case of dispute, the Secretary of Labor must decide just what the "prevailing scale" is.

District and Taxi Driver Named in Woman's Suit

The suit alleges that the municipal government permitted an excavation to remain in Broad Branch road, near McKinley street northwest, and that Livsie drove his cab into the hole while she was a passenger in his cab, with the result that she suffered severe injuries.

Retirement Ruled For Five Firemen

Five retirements in the fire department were ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners as a result of the recent physical examinations of all members of the police and fire departments over 55 years of age.

They are Capt. C. C. Wolz, of 29 engine company; W. D. Canter, 5 engine company; C. D. McAuliffe, water tower; C. E. Howe, fire boat, and George Saur, 22 engine company. The latter four are privates.

Pvt. W. W. Snow, of 21 engine company, was granted an additional compensation of $5 a month for outstanding efficiency.

Capital Violinist Plans For Reforestation Camp

Memories of World War days were revived at the reforestation camp, at Edinburg, Va., near Luray, when Evelyn Scott, Washington concert violinist, donating her services to the camp as an entertainer, played before the 200 odd members of the "army" last night.

Miss Scott was given an enthusiastic reception. Following the violin solos, the men joined lustily in songs.

Members of the Washington Baseball Team including Sam Rice, Ossie Bluege and Fred Schulte were guests last night of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, F. A. A. M., at a "baseball night" meeting at the Masonic Temple.

Wardman Firm Is Sued For $126,500 in Notes

The Wardman Corporation yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $126,500, plus interest, instituted in District Supreme Court by Henry P. Blair, Julius I. Peyser and Michael M. Doyle, who acted in their official capacities as trustees for the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co.

Through Attorney Joseph D. Sullivan, the trustees asserted the Wardman Co. failed to pay a number of promissory notes, which date back to July, 1931.

GOVERNMENT COSTS THIRD OF ALL PAYS

Senator King Tells Rhode Island Avenue Citizens of Economy Need.

One out of every three days' pay of everyone goes to the expenses of Government Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, told members of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association at a celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary last night, in an appeal to citizens to moderate their requests for civil expenditures.

Speaking at Sherwood Hall, Senator King said the sale of all the properties of the United States would not cover the sum of the bonded indebtedness of business, State, county and city government.

"I think we have been going too fast in this country," he asserted, asking for a more careful budgeting of governmental expenditures.

The gathering was welcomed by George L. Gee, president of the association, who described the formation of the group, stating it held its first meeting in a little country store.

M. C. Wilson sketched the activities of the association in its 25 years of existence.

Among others who addressed the gathering were Capt. H. F. Clark, assistant Engineer Commissioner; James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks; Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools; Selden M. Ely, supervising principal of the Fifth division of schools, and Dr. George F. Bowerman, public librarian.

E. G. Sievers was toastmaster.

Doctor Is Sent to Jail And License Is Revoked

Dr. Clarence A. Wright, colored, was barred from practicing medicine in the District yesterday when Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court revoked his license, and sentenced him to jail for performing illegal operations.

On the first case he was sentenced to serve from one to two years, and on the second, involving the same type of charge, he was given a straight 2-year sentence, to run concurrently with the first sentence.

SCHOOLBOY PATROL WILL MARCH TODAY

More Than 4,000 Youths, 75 Floats and 9 Bands Will Participate.

The Schoolboy Patrol will parade down Pennsylvania avenue this afternoon in its second annual safety demonstration, with more than 4,000 schoolboy patrolers, 75 floats and nine bands in the line of march.

The work of the Schoolboy Patrol was praised by President Roosevelt in a letter read yesterday in all classrooms, in which the Chief Executive expressed the hope the patrol movement "will continue to expand as a permanent feature of our national effort in the interest of traffic safety."

"This movement," he said, "is unquestionably a fine builder of morale. It also develops a sense of responsibility which can not but make for good citizenship."

In the parade today there will be about 3,000 local boys and the rest will be made up of patrols from Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina.

The parade will start at 3 o'clock with Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, as a grand marshal. The starting point will be at Constitution avenue and John Marshall place and it will proceed west along Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street and then to Constitution avenue to the Ellipse, where it will disband.

The parade will be reviewed from a stand on Constitution avenue by members of the House and Senate District Committees, the Board of Education, and Dr. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education.

BISHOP HUGHES HITS WORLD'S RICH MEN IN CONVENTION TALK

Dr. Abernethy Elected to Head Northern Baptists; Movies Scored.

An attack on the rich, in which the names of the Crocsuses of history were named and the identity of men of wealth of the present day withheld, marked an address of Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this city, before the Northern Baptist convention at Washington Auditorium last night.

"The world never had a permanent financial hero or a permanent social hero," Bishop Hughes asserted.

To prove that the names of rich men do not live, Bishop Hughes gave a catechism to his auditors in which he asked them to name various men of wealth in history, from the time of Homer to the day of Lincoln. No satisfactory answers were given by any of the 3,000 Baptists present.

Dr. Abernethy New Head.

Dr. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, was elected president of the convention to succeed Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, of St. Louis, Mo. Rochester, N. Y., was selected as the meeting place for next year.

Efforts to put the convention on record as opposed to a book entitled "Re-Thinking Missions," representing the findings of a study financed by John D. Rockefeller, jr., failed after a lengthy and scrimonious debate at the afternoon session.

Commendation was given the decision of the mission board of the Baptist Church that the book was unacceptable because it "failed to give Christ His place of preeminence." Some sections of the book were described as valuable by the mission board.

Heated Argument Arises.

An equally heated argument arose over a movement to have the church withdraw from the Federal Council of Churches. The convention voted to remain in the council.

Resolutions were presented opposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment, favoring disarmament and world peace, and condemning sweatshops, "and the terrible conditions in the coal fields." The resolutions will be acted on today.

Another resolution called on Congress to "make a determined effort for Federal regulation of the motion picture industry." Criticism was made of the moving picture producers for placing overemphasis on sex, encouraging crime and presenting an "improper" portrayal of American life.

Revised Alley Measure Introduced by Capper

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, yesterday introduced in the Senate a revised bill for the rehabilitation of District alleys, representing the results of a compromise worked out by the District Commissioners and the National Park and Planning Commission.

The redrafted measure, which appropriates $500,000 of unexpended balances from the old United States Housing Corporation to serve as a rotating fund in renovizing the District's inhabited alleys, will be considered at a meeting of the Senate District Committee called for Monday.

Daughters of America Will Conduct Memorial

The annual memorial services of the Daughters of America will be conducted tomorrow night at the Eastern Presbyterian Church under the direction of the State council of the District. The Rev. Alfred E. Barrows, pastor, will deliver a memorial address.

Among those who will take part in the program are Mrs. Mildred Rock, Mrs. Grace L. Ricketts, Mrs. Ethel E. Burroughs and Mrs. Pearl Wolfe.

Vaughn Class to Visit Grave of Its Founder

In accordance with an annual custom, members and friends of the Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church Sunday School will visit the grave of the class' founder, Commander Francis Vaughn, in Rock Creek Cemetery, at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Honor also will be paid at the graves of Homer J. Councilor, former teacher of the class, and Dr. Samuel Greene, former pastor of the church.

LECTURE
by W. H. Gilhooly
Chairman of the Board of the M. W. Locke Shoe Co.

"FOOT AILMENTS--
What to Do About Them"

SATURDAY—10:30 A. M.

Primarily, Mr. Gilhooly is here to advise interested clients in the remarkable M. W. Locke line of orthopedic shoes. But . . . since there is so much to say of Dr. Locke's astonishing work in Williamsburg, Ontario, Canada, we have persuaded Mr. Gilhooly to give a lecture . . . to which you are, of course, invited as our guests.
